Foerster sworn in as head of police

New chief replaces Fagan

By Tara Clifton

tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

With his right hand raised and facing village clerk Candi L. Rowe, James Foerster promised to uphold the constitution of the United States and protect the citizens of Antioch. Foerster was sworn in recently as the village's new police chief in front of a town hall bustling with fellow officers, family, friends and community members. Smiling widely, Mayor Dorothy Larson pinned him with a temporary chief's badge, on loan from former Antioch police chief Chuck Miller. Foerster replaced Chuck Fagan who was appointed by previous mayor Taso Maravelas in 2003. Fagan is no longer with the Antioch Police Department, Foerster said. Foerster's duties as chief begin immediately. His promotion has been an unexpected and humbling experience, Foerster said. "I'm a low key guy," Foerster said. "I'm just trying to be a better person tomorrow than I was today." Foerster, who has lived in Antioch for nearly all of his 43 years, said his knowledge of the community will help him serve better. "I think I know what they need and what they want," he said. Larson said Foerster is highly qualified for his new position, and expects him to do an excellent job. She said she was impressed by his resume. Foerster graduated from Antioch Community High School in 1980 and from College of Lake County in 1984. He completed several programs at the University of Illinois Police Training Institute, the Northwestern University Center for Public Safety and the University of Louisville's

"This is God's plan"

Ministry aims to help Indians across world

By Tara Clifton

tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

The stories of their pasts are tragic, but their futures are filled with promise. Consider Ravi. This little boy was born into an orthodox Hindu home in India. His father died in a road accident, and his mother died of a heart attack shortly after. Ravi was sent to live with his uncle, aunt and two cousins in one small rented room. But he was not accepted as a part of the family. Ravi's uncle turned him into a slave, giving him a list of chores to do each day. If Ravi completed them, he could eat, but only the scraps left on the others' plates. If Ravi did not get the chores done, his uncle viciously beat him. But one day, his uncle grew tired of him, and dropped him off at an orphanage. This is the part of the story where Mission India steps in, the Indian counterpart of Reaching Indians Ministries International, which is based in Round Lake Beach. Ravi ended up in a Mission India Mercy Home, an orphanage. Now he can eat three meals a day, socialize with other children, and is accepted into a loving environment. When Ravi turns 18, Mission India will pay for his college education if he wishes to pursue that course. Saji Lukos, who founded these two ministries in 1993, wants to help more people like Ravi, and wipe out poverty in India. With God's help and through human cooperation, it will be a thing of the past, Lukos said. But this will be no small task. India holds more than 1.1 billion people which speak 1,650 languages. About 40 percent of the

D117 gets first assistant superintendent

By Tara Clifton

tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

Let's do a little math. One new school plus lots of extra students equals more staff needed to work with those students. Next school year Lakes Community High School will have 1,200 to 1,300 pupils, said Jay Sabatino, superintendent of school district 117. Antioch Community High School will hold 1,300 to 1,400. The D117 school board recently hired David Moyer of Crystal Lake as the district's first assistant superintendent to help handle extra responsibilities. Moyer comes from McHenry East High School and is in his third year as principal there. He said his new job will be a good opportunity for him. "I feel fortunate that the things they're looking for are things I have strength in," Moyer said. "It'll be a good chance to help them do the things they need to." Sabatino said the district is focusing on updating curriculum and making sure staff training is consistent. Moyer was one of 20 applicants for the assistant superintendent position, Sabatino said. Out of that group Sabatino interviewed nine candidates, and recommended Moyer to the school board. Moyer starts with D117 in July, and will be

D34 asks community for favor at village meeting

By Tara Clifton

tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

In front of a crowded village hall during a recent board meeting, Scott Thompson presented his case on why school District 34 needs Antioch's help.

In an effort to ensure the passage of a building referendum on the March 21 ballot, Thompson, D34 superintendent, presented the district's plans to build two new schools to solve overcrowding and projected future population growth.

"This is the only way we're going to continue to make this foundational part of our community vital," Thompson said.

Rough plans and basic ideas were printed out on large, white boards sitting on an easel to visually display the district's future goals and current hurdles.

The cost of building the two schools is estimated at $45.65 million, Thompson said. This means the tax rate would increase by 20 cents. For a home with a value of $200,000, this would add $123 a year to that homeowner's taxes. The owner of a $300,000 home would pay an extra $185 a year.

"The only way for us to build the schools is to come to the taxpayers," Thompson said. Illinois law mandates that school construction projects must be funded by the public.

And although some community members have grumbled about the proposed tax increase, one group of parents formed an organization to make sure the referendum is passed.

Citizens for D34 Children was formed several weeks ago when the district announced its plans for the schools.

"It's not a huge tax increase for what we need for the kids," said Anne Miller, a member of the group. She has a daughter in the first grade and twin boys who will enter kindergarten next year.

"People just hear the words 'tax increase' and flip out," Miller said.

The citizens group recently held a voter registration drive and is planning more events, Miller said.

Students need the extra space the new buildings would provide, Miller said, and would keep them safer.

Besides, what the district is asking isn't any "heftier" than other areas, Miller said.

Officials' long-range projections predict that if the two schools are built and the population continues to increase at its current rate, another building won't be needed for at least 10 years, Thompson said.

The district has enough money in the educational fund to run the two schools if they are built, Thompson said, and won't need to ask taxpayers to help foot bills for at least five years.

Thompson's presentation was one of the first in a series of steps the district has taken and will take to inform residents of its proposals.

Information can be found via mailed newsletters and information sheets and by browsing the district's Web site.

Information nights will also be held where various school representatives will be available to answer questions. These sessions will be held from 7 to 8:30 p.m. March 1 at Oakland School, 22018 W. Grass Lake Road, and March 7 at W.C. Petty School, at 850 Highview Drive.

D34 schools already experience overcrowding problems. The student population is about 3,000, and capacity is only 2,870, Thompson said. In the next five years the population is expected to climb to 4,000 or more.

W.C. Petty, Oakland and Antioch elementary schools hold 16 mobile classrooms to house extra students. This poses a security threat because if a student needs to go to the bathroom, he or she must exit the portable and enter the main building with a key. Not enough staff members exist to escort each student.

A committee concluded in November that building two new schools is the answer to these problems.

MINISTRY

nation is illiterate.

It was through the will of God that RIMI was able to buy the Lindenhurst civic center as its new headquarters, Lukos said.

RIMI bought the center for $340,000, Lukos said, and $75,000 to $100,000 will be spent remodeling the center to create office spaces and a sanctuary.

Excited and eager, Lukos said he wanted to start work on the center Feb. 6. But building codes and permits are needed from the village first, Lukos said, so that is the biggest priority right now.

Right now, RIMI is operated from the basement of Lukos' home in Round Lake Beach, a small area crammed with computers, printers, maps of India and five busy staff members.

Once the new office in Lindenhurst is ready, Lukos said, RIMI will search for 15 to 20 new volunteers and both full and part time employees.

Laura Grimaldi, director of development, said RIMI's new location will expose Lindenhurst residents to a new culture.

"America is about this melting pot and creating something uniquely beautiful because we're willing to be influenced by other cultures," Grimaldi said.

Lukos said his ministry also wants to reach out to the more than 500,000 Indians in the Chicago area.

RIMI's partner in India is based in Nagpur, Maharashtra, in the center of the country. Lukos said Mission India has 810 workers, 16 orphanages and dozens of churches across the continent.

Mission India also seeks to build a hospital and nursing school in Nagpur to provide medical care for the poor, set up schools in various villages, establish more orphanages, build libraries, and set up a group in each state to provide material assistance to the poor.

Lukos was born in the state of Kerala, sitting on the southern tip of India. He was born into an upper caste family, the eldest of eight children. India's castes are similar to the class system in America, except it is much more difficult to move between the castes.

"I had all material things but no hope," Lukos said. In 1980 he stumbled upon the message of the Gospel, and said his life was transformed.

Lukos taught business for eight years before moving to America in 1988. He studied theology at Trinity International University in Deerfield, Ill.

But he felt compelled to go back to his native land, and traveled all over India in 1993. What he saw shook him.

On a train ride between states, Lukos said a little boy, adorned in dirty rags, carried a small bucket and broom with him, moving up and down the aisle brushing the floor. He brushed past Lukos, and asked him for some coins.

Lukos' heart broke for the boy, he said. Upon returning to the United States, he founded RIMI and Mission India.

"Who will change the poverty of India?" Lukos said. "The good people will take care of India."

But he said he also wants to positively influence people's lives in the Chicago area, especially with RIMI's new headquarters in Lindenhurst.

"This ministry will be good for the community," Lukos said, by helping immigrants, holding activities and essentially aiming to be a community center.

Lukos' passion to serve others, he said, is fueled by the desire to give others the love that God has shown him.

"He changed me from darkness to light, and I want to multiply that," Lukos said.

Fundraiser a big hit

Two donations highlight of the evening

By Tara Clifton

tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

This time around, Colleen Kausak was able to enjoy herself more.

During the third-annual ADAMS Night that took place last week, Kausak said she had less difficulty dealing with her grief.

"It went easier this year. I guess you could say I was with it more," she said.

After all, the Automatic Defibrillators Allow More Survival Night was held in honor of her son Adam, 15, who died in 2002 of cardiac arrest triggered by Long QT Syndrome. The genetic disorder affects the electrical activity of the heart, posing the constant threats of sudden loss of consciousness, cardiac arrest and death.

Kausak and her husband, Don, founded the ADAMS Night fundraiser to raise money and awareness of the syndrome. Money goes towards buying automatic defibrillators, devices that can jumpstart the heart in case of cardiac arrest.

The units are donated to local schools.

Colleen called this year's event a success, and said roughly 140 people attended.

Colleen said she and Don have not tallied how much money was raised at this year's event, but during the night of dinner, dancing and auctions, two defibrillators were donated.

This is no small favor, as one unit costs as much as $1,500. Colleen said she was thrilled.

Larry Oliver, a Democratic candidate for Lake County Sheriff in the upcoming March 21 primary, donated one defibrillator. The American Hotel Registry gave the Kausaks the other.

Colleen said she and Don already know where the machines will go. One will be donated to St. Mary's School in Buffalo Grove, where they know of a child in need of a unit.

The other defibrillator will be given to Chain of Lakes Community Bible Church in Lake Villa.

Colleen said not only do she and Don need to total how much money was raised during the event, but a truck full of decorations that were used and prizes for the auctions needs to be unloaded.

But those things will be put on hold for a while, Colleen said.

implanted under the muscle on the left side of his chest. The battery in the implant died much sooner than expected, and surgery is needed to replace it.

Officials get first glimpse of possible logos, taglines

By Tara Clifton

tclifton@nwnewsgroup.com

After nearly two months of work, The Goodness Company finally got the chance to show a handful of village officials the fruits of its labor.

Members of the Finance, Economic Redevelopment and Business District Fund Committee eagerly watched a slide show presentation of three logos and taglines and their variations during a recent meeting.

The company was hired in December to create a logo, image and brand for Antioch as part of the village's downtown rejuvenation project. The Goodness Company's services cost $25,000, and more money might be needed depending upon what direction the project takes.

The three logos and taglines the committee saw were whittled down from a list of 20 possibilities a merchant committee evaluated, said Patrick Goodness, owner of the public relations and marketing firm.

The merchant committee consisted of various Antioch businesses, Goodness said. The committee sent its three recommended logos and taglines to the finance committee.

The merchants voted "Close to home...Close to perfect" it's favorite. Second favorite was "Small town pleasures, unexpected treasures." The third on the list was "Your every day get away."

Logos ranged from a silhouette of a church steeple, sawmill and sailboat to a compass that held an outline of well-known Antioch landmarks.

Patrick and Terri Goodness watched anxiously to see what logo and tagline village officials would vote as their favorite.

"They all look nice to me," Trustee Scott Pierce said.

They chose the first logo and tagline presented, but once they saw a booklet featuring the 20 Goodness-created logos the merchants saw, they asked for another meeting that would enable them to look over all the logos.

But the finance committee seemed pleased with the first three taglines and logos the company showed.

They just felt strongly about the ones the merchants decided not to recommend, said Trustee Barbara Porch.

Patrick Goodness said the next step would be to create a color scheme for the logos, which were presented in black and white to focus on design.

"This gives people a more solid idea of what Antioch is all about," Patrick said.

A meeting time to discuss the other logos and taglines has not been determined yet.

Money used to pay for The Goodness Company comes from the Antioch Business District Fund, an idea proposed by Porch.

Funds are built by taking 25 percent of the additional sales tax revenue earned in 2005 over 2004. For example, if a town earns $100,000 in sales tax revenue in 2004 and $150,000 in 2005, that means the town earned $50,000 extra in sales tax revenue than it did the previous year.

The business fund would get 25 percent of that extra $50,000. The formula will continue to be followed unless the village board decides otherwise.

Besides hiring The Goodness Company to give Antioch a theme and logo, village officials have taken other steps to revitalize the downtown area.

The biggest step taken so far has been Antioch's acceptance of the Professional Musky Tournament Trail's offer to host the United States PMTT Championship Nov. 3-5.

Over 1,000 people will converge upon the village, including the best musky fishers in the country. The huge fish will be caught, photographed, measured, weighed and thrown back into the water. The measurements from each catch will be compared to determine the winner.

Other steps the village has taken to breathe life into its business district includes joining the Lake County Visitors Bureau and passing the BYOB ordinance, which allows businesses without a liquor license to serve the wine that customers bring in.

ACHS holds cancer fundraiser

At Antioch Community High School this month, flowers will be used to do more than show love and friendship.

They will help save lives.

In conjunction with the American Cancer Society, the school's National Honor Society is running its fifth-annual "Daffodil Days" fundraiser.

Students and community members can buy 10 daffodils that come in a vase for $7. Cobalt blue vases are available for $5. A "Gift of Hope" purchase sends anonymously flowers and a vase to cancer patients in various hospitals in Lake County.

New this year is the "Bear and a Bunch" option, which offers a 12-inch stuffed bear and 10 daffodils for $25.

All proceeds go to the American Cancer Society for research and educational programs.

Orders will be taken until Feb. 22.

Linda Blasko, co-advisor of NHS and a secretary in the library, said NHS students are doing a good job soliciting daffodil sales.

"Unfortunately, a lot of people have experienced a loved one who had to go through cancer," Blasko said. Many can understand the need to fund cancer research.

Sales numbers reflect this understanding. In 2005 the program raised $6,375 and in 2004 over $9,000 was raised, Blasko said.

ACHS students can order daffodils at the school's media center or from an NHS member.

If residents want to help, they can contact Blasko at 847-838-7762.

With a little help from her friends

That favorite old song is right. We all need somebody to lean on. But how many people have friends that they can truly count on?

Trish Ronan, 51, of Antioch can consider herself very lucky.

A group, some old friends and some who are acquaintances, are holding a benefit for her at 6 p.m. Feb. 19 at Maravillas on the corner of Route 59 and Washington Street in Fox Lake. Attendees will enjoy a dinner buffet from 6 to 7:15 p.m. and then take in a musical review, "Side by Side by Sondheim," directed by Ken Smouse of Antioch, at 7:30 p.m.

The evening will also include a cash bar and a raffle of items donated by merchants and individuals.

Tickets cost $65 each, and must be purchased in advance by calling 815-675-6392.

Money raised during the night will be given to Ronan, who several months ago suddenly became paralyzed from the waist down.

Ronan is the owner and operator of American Hair Lines, a salon at 1013 Main St. in Antioch. But she also has a passion for horses, and frequently competes in equestrian events.

In October, Ronan rode her horse to prepare for a dressage competition the next day. The horse threw her, resulting in spinal damage.

The fundraiser will help Ronan get back into her love for horses and do a part to support her and her daughter.

"We just got everybody together and we're getting good community support," said Betty Smouse, one of the organizers of Ronan's benefit.

A group of about 12 of Ronan's close friends brainstormed the benefit idea, Smouse said, and it ballooned from there. Planning has been underway since January.

Ronan was a student of Smouse's husband, a teacher at Antioch Community High School, Smouse said. And she was also friends with several of Smouse's children.

A community is giving back to a woman who affected them deeply. Going to the event might give Ronan another friend, or good-hearted person, to lean on.

Store grew from five and dime

*Hannah's offers choices,
personal attention*

By Tara Clifton

tclifton@nwnewsgrp.com

Sitting in the quaint, scenic downtown part of Antioch, Hannah's Home Accents, 455 Lake St., looks like it fits in with its surroundings.

Until you walk inside.

The store opens up into large, airy room bursting with every sort of home decor item you could dream of: walls full of green vines and flower arrangements, candles both small and huge, wooden shelves, wrought iron wall hangings, and more.

But despite its vast appearance and array of choices, Hannah's offers something a chain store might not: personal attention.

Erin Marski, who handles marketing for the family-owned business, said decorators work one-on-one with customers to help them choose what home decor they want.

"People are always looking to spice up their homes, and our designers will walk you through what works for you," Marski said.

The Marskis learned that floral decor was a customer favorite from their previous business, Marski said.

Up until 1998, the Marskis ran Ben Franklin, which was an old-fashioned five and dime store, Erin said.

Even though the store eventually went bankrupt, Erin's parents, Don and Jane, noticed that floral arrangements and decorations always flew off the shelves, Erin said.

Thus Hannah's was born, which special-

Hannah's Home Accents was named for her mother, Erin said. Erin's mother was named Hannah Jane, but she disliked her first name so much she had it legally changed to Jane Hannah.

But more than home decor is offered at Hannah's. The store also has a wide selection of frames, which fit both photographs and artwork, and holds classes for various crafts.

The scrapbooking classes have been the most popular this year, Erin said, but customers can also take other lessons, such as beadwork.

The Marskis are also planning a store rearrangement, such as putting the bead selection toward the front of the building, Erin said.

FOERSTER

National Crime Prevention Institute.

In 1991 Foerster implemented the Drug Abuse Resistance Education program in Antioch and is the police department's liaison for the Federal Bureau of Investigation's Counter Terrorism Task Force.

He also serves as the Antioch liaison for the Illinois Law Enforcement Alarm System, a mutual aid system for officers.

Foerster said he isn't as focused on his new job as he is on being able to help residents and the challenges Antioch faces.

In recent years Antioch has experienced rapid population growth, which led to traffic congestion, more crime and other problems, Foerster said.

"We'll continue to be tough on crime but we have to balance that with the need to reach out to the community and develop a dialogue," he said.

Working with other police agencies, task forces and organizations is a strong possibility as Antioch grows, Foerster said.

However, he does not plan on making any major changes right away, Foerster said.

Antioch's new chief has a wife of 21 years, Debbie, and two children, Lauren, 19, and Krissy, 17.

very busy in the meantime.

Not only is he a high school principal, but he teaches administrative cohort classes at Aurora University.

Besides, "I still have a lot of things I'm responsible to here," at McHenry East, Moyer said.

Moyer and his wife, Donna, bought a house in October in Crystal Lake, he said. They have four boys, 14, 12, 11 and 8, and a girl, 4.

At some point in the future Moyer said he and his family will move closer to Antioch, but because they just bought their house they will hold off on that for a while.

When Moyer begins work at D117 this summer, he and Sabatino will split tasks, Sabatino said.

For example, Moyer might talk to the English departments at ACHS and LCHS to see what is needed and make sure standards are in place, Sabatino said.

Sabatino said he is looking forward to working with Moyer.

"He's a pretty engaging individual with a wide range of experiences," Sabatino said.

Finding a wine for your Valentine

Connoisseurs reveal their romantic picks for the holiday of hugs and kisses

By Kathy Grosz

Curvy, intoxicating and sweet to the lips. Nothing says, "I love you" on Valentine's Day like a bottle of fine wine. Lakeland Newspapers went on assignment to determine what wines would work best for wooing a loved one this Feb. 14. Follow the advice of these local experts and you're sure to have a holiday worth remembering.

Rolling in raspberries

Those seeking a sweet wine for their lover will find nothing better than the Raspberry Wine produced by Glunz Family Winery & Cellars, 888 E. Belvidere Road, in Grayslake. This wine is made with only the freshest and ripest raspberries from the Glunz family farm and goes well with any after-dinner delicacy.

"It's definitely a dessert wine," said owner Beth Glunz. "You can pour it over cheese cake or ice cream. It goes great with anything chocolate. Just a glass of this on the side is outstanding."

The wine has won numerous awards and can be purchased for $14.95 a bottle. "If you want something special, this is a gift wine," Glunz said.

Also recommended is the 2002 Vintage Port, one of few ports produced in America using traditional porting grapes. The 2002 Every Day Zinfandel, a medium bodied, soft tannin red wine that goes well with red meat, is an excellent choice as well.

The port sells for $19.95 a bottle and the Zinfandel sells for $12.95. The latter coming from Sonoma County California.

Did someone say Chardonnay?

A good Chardonnay at a reasonable price can be hard to find, but at DiCarlo Fine Wine & Spirits, 425 Townline Road, in Mundelein, there is one that fits the bill. The 2004 Fox Glove Chardonnay is as fancy as it is affordable. The wine has a wonderful creaminess with vanilla and oak flavoring that goes well with most any meal.

"It is exactly what it is," said wine buyer Paul Cutler. "We blind tasted it up against cake bread and we couldn't tell the difference. I love it. It's a great wine."

Cutler's top picks also include the 2004 Kenwood Sauvignon Blanc at $11.99 a bottle and the 2004 Banfi Rosa Regale Sparkling Wine at $21.99.

The Sauvignon tastes of citrus fruits and has a lingering finish, while the sparkling wine is great pick for those who like the pop and sweetness of champagne.

DiCarlo's also offers Valentine's gift sets for those seeking something a bit more fancy. Wine and champagne sets are available for $24.99 and $39.99 a package.

On Stage Wright's provocative 'Grace' connects with audiences

By Tom Witom

Craig Wright, a former seminarian and television script writer ("Lost" and "Six Feet Under"), knows how to get under an audience's skin. And in "Grace," an emotionally charged, dark comedy now playing at Northlight Theatre in Skokie, he does just that.

The play runs for 90 minutes or so and opens with a bang—several, in fact. Bodies are strewn, the lights are darkened and then, in movie-like flashback mode, the play rewinds and starts from the beginning again.

Its subject matter tackles substantive issues of faith and religion, love and commitment.

Wright's thoughtful play, thoughtfully directed by Dexter Bullard, is set in a nondescript Florida condo building where a zealously (some might say fanatically) religious young couple has moved from Minnesota to trust divine providence and seek their fortune. Steve, played with fervor by Steve Key, is convinced that a business deal he has undertaken to buy hotels is the answer to his prayers—even though he has never actually met his financial backer but only worked through an intermediary.

"The idea is to make a lot of money. God wants it to happen," Steve naively proclaims.

For the longest time, Steve is in denial that something is amiss. But he keeps signing his name to acquire various properties on behalf of his mysterious new business partner, even though he has never seen one penny of the promised $14 million capital and lenders are getting suspicious.

Meanwhile, his wife Sara (Chanon Cross, full of simpatico) finds herself more distanced from her preoccupied husband and drawn closer and closer to a despondent neighbor, Sam (Michael Shannon), whose face was disfigured in a recent car accident in which his fiancé died.

In contrast to Steve, Sam is unconvinced about the existence of God. He feels totally abandoned. Not only did he lose his intended wife, but treasured digital pictures taken of her during their big trip to Italy are mysteriously disintegrating from the camera's memory card.

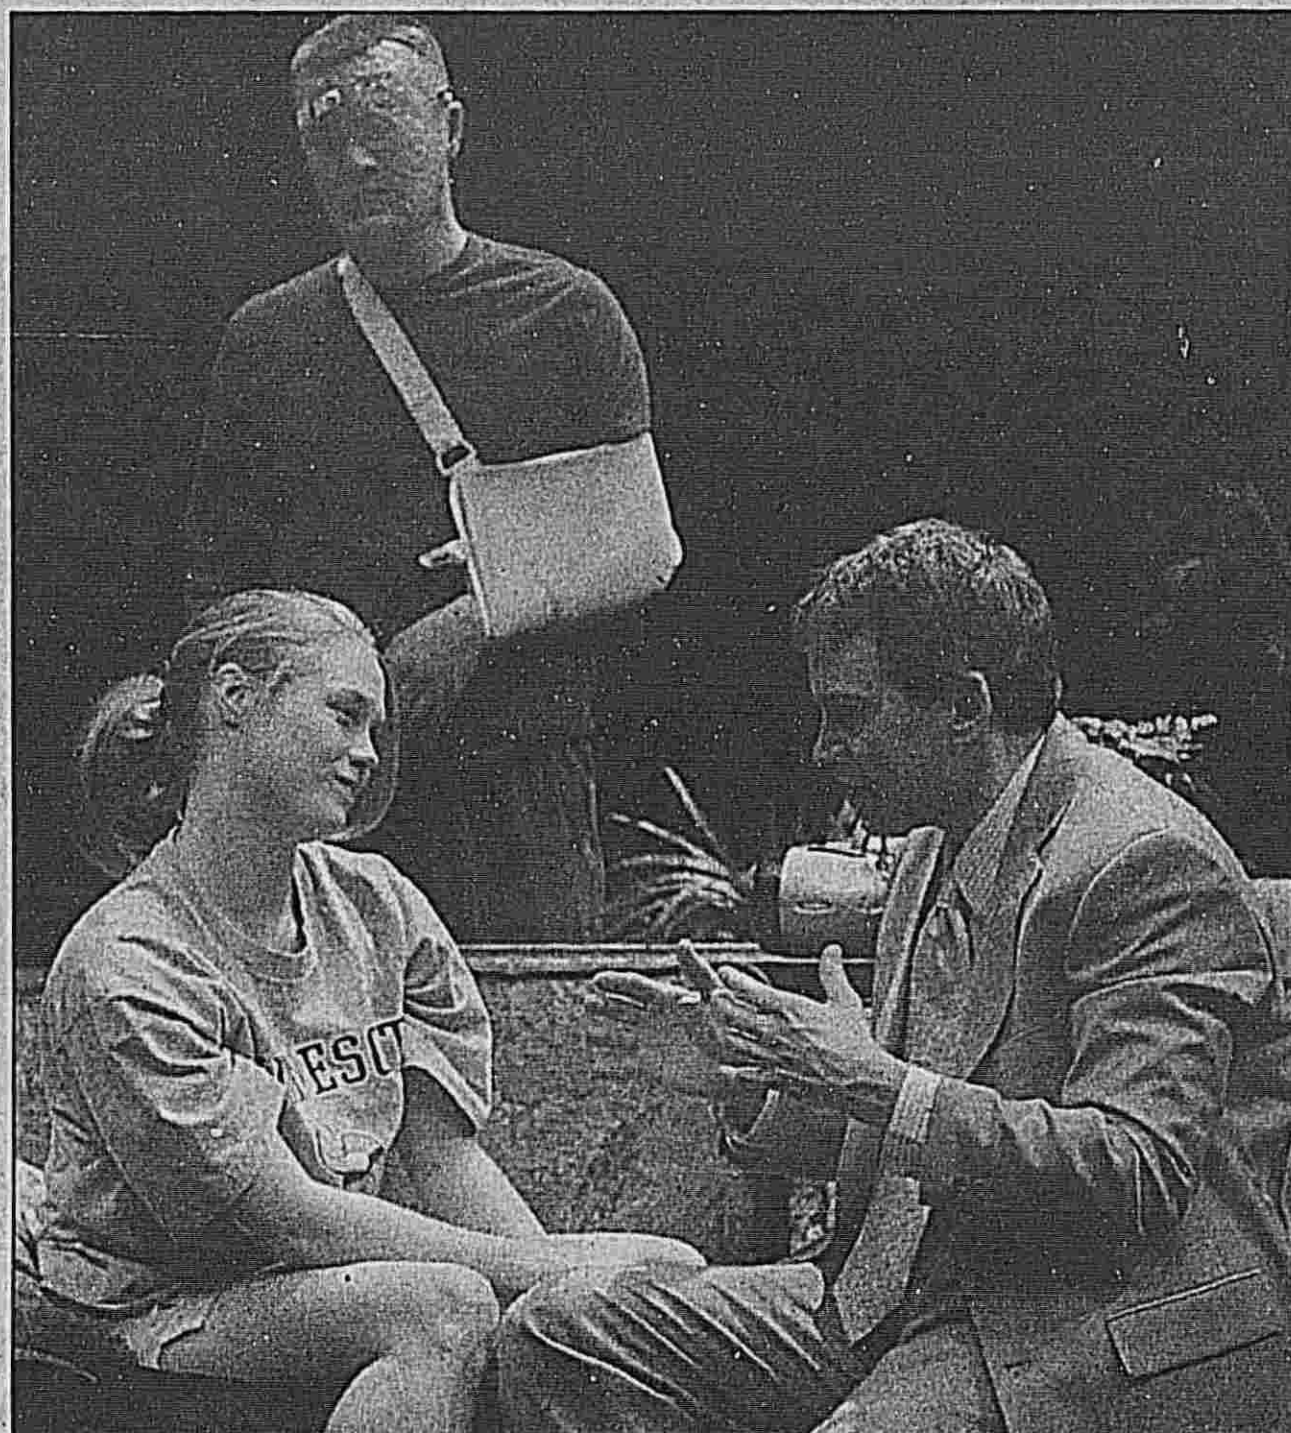

Appearances in two scenes by Karl the exterminator (veteran actor Mike Nussbaum) add to the framework of the story. A religious skeptic who calls Steve and Sara "Jesus freaks," Karl has a potent story to tell relating to how his family harbored Jews from Nazi persecution during World War II.

As "Grace" progresses, each character is forced to reexamine their long-held core beliefs. It's a fascinating process to watch.

Meanwhile, the set by Jack Magaw, works especially well. He uses a single apartment to do double duty, so the action seamlessly shifts between Steve and Sara's quarters and those of Sam even though, at times, all of the characters simultaneously occupy the same space on stage.

Larry the Cable Guy adds two shows

Outback Concerts is proud to add two new shows featuring Larry the Cable Guy for on Sunday, April 2 at 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. A limited amount of tickets are still available for the 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. performances on Saturday, April 1. Tickets, which are all priced at $42.75, and can be purchased at the Genesee Theatre Box Office, all Ticketmaster outlets, charge-by-phone at 312-559-1212 or online at www.ticketmaster.com. Tickets for all four shows are currently on sale.

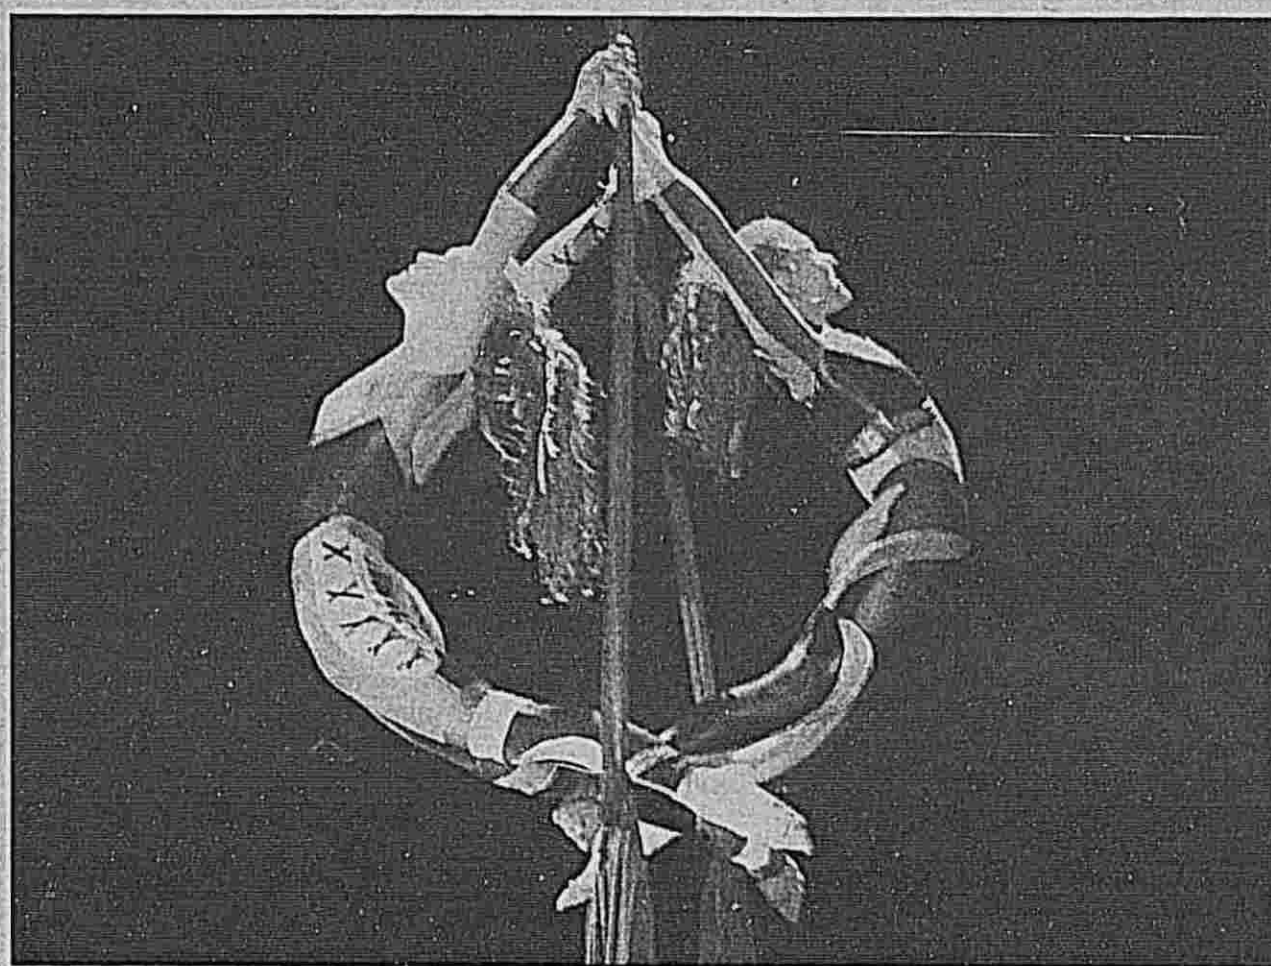

With his cry of "Git-R-Done!" and "Lord, I Apologize?" Larry the Cable Guy begins his daily radio commentaries in cities around the country. You might not think a cable installer could be hilariously funny — until you see Larry the Cable Guy, the church-going, strip bargaining know-it-all comedian in theatres and arenas across the United States.

Born and raised on a pig farm in Pawnee City, Nebraska his family then moved to West Palm Beach, Florida. Like many comics he began his career on a dare at a local comedy club in 1986. He was immediately hooked. In 1988, he quit his day job as the funniest bellhop at The Ramada and hit the road. It wasn't long before he was wowing comedy club crowds with his high energy one liner style of stand up and soon made appearances on "Evening at The Improv" "Comic Strip Live", Comedy Central, MTV and Showtime.

Larry burst onto the radio scene in 1992 on a highly rated Tampa morning show and was subsequently syndicated into Orlando. More stations followed and today his wacky, outrageous and topical commentaries are carried daily in 14 markets on rock radio. Larry is also a regular of Jeff Foxworthy's Country Countdown Show. He also makes regular guest appearances on nationally syndicated shows Man Cow in the Morning, The John Boy & Billy Show, and the Bob & Tom Show.

Star of "Blue Collar TV", the ensemble cast also included Jeff Foxworthy and Bill Engvall from "Blue Collar Comedy Tour, The Movie." The show came about due to the success of the film and the highly successful concert tour, which grossed more than 15 million dollars.

His CD "Lord, I Apologize", recorded live in Omaha, has been released on Universal Music and is now available in stores. The CD has been number one on the Billboard Comedy Charts for nine weeks in a row. The special gave Comedy Central their second biggest Sunday night in the channel's history. "Git-R-Done" is available on DVD and VHS.

Circus Nexus presents 'Rites and Rituals' at CLC Feb. 24

Circus aerialists, acrobats and dancers will be featured in new show coming to the College of Lake County James Lumber Center for the Performing Arts at 8 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 24. Circus Nexus will present "Rites and Rituals: A Celebration of the Spirit," a fusion of circus, dance and theatre that includes an original musical score, dance, dazzling lighting effects and lavish sets and costumes.

"The story centers on a ceremony that takes place in a forgotten but advanced pre-Aztec civilization that time forgot," said Christopher Fleming, the show's choreographer/co-director. "It contains humor, beautiful circus acts and dancing all woven into a story of the rite of passage that a young man follows. And prior to the show, the performers interact with the audience to get people in the mood. It's an experience to help the mind to shift gears, kind of like an overture or appetizers before dinner," he said.

Fleming helped assemble an eclectic mix of 16 artists from all over the world who combine a variety of dance, musical and circus talents. Formerly, a New York City Ballet soloist during the George Balanchine era, Fleming also has been artistic director of Compañia Colombiana de Ballet in Bogota and the Bay Ballet Theatre in Tampa, Fla.

Circus Nexus is produced and co-directed by Keith Arsenault, a producer/director/production manager for such major entertainment venues as Walt Disney World, Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey, Southern Ballet Theatre, Circus Maximus, The Tokyo Ballet, The Moscow Circus, Moscow Classical Ballet and Busch Gardens. Arsenault and Fleming have known each other for 20 years, since their mothers were dancers in Florida.

Tickets are $40 for the general public; $37 for CLC students, staff, CLC Alumni Association members and seniors 65-plus; and $20 for children 12 and under. Tickets can be purchased by calling the CLC Box Office at (847) 543-2300, or online at www.clcillinois.edu/tickets.

'A Raisin in the Sun' to be presented by CLC Theatre Department

"A Raisin in the Sun" by Lorraine Hansberry will be presented by the College of Lake County Theatre Department on Feb. 17, 18, 23, 24 and 25 at 7:30 p.m. and Feb. 26 at 2 p.m. in the Studio Theatre in the James Lumber Center for the Performing Arts. This classic American drama is guest-directed by Ilesa Duncan, a freelance director who has worked with many Chicago-area theatre companies, including Pegasus Players, Chicago Theatre Company, Chicago Dramatists and Writers Theatre.

The local cast of "A Raisin in the Sun" includes Abigail Adjei-Perberg as Ruth Younger, J. LaMont as Walter Lee Younger, Danielle McKenzie as Beneatha Younger, Nyoka Duerson as Lena Younger, D'Anthony Early-Riley as Travis Younger, Babel Xzavian as Joseph Asagai, James Conner as George Murchison, Kenny Jones as Bobo and Ryan McNeil as Mr. Linder. The play tells the story of a black family living and struggling on Chicago's South Side in the 1950s. Lorraine Hansberry wrote "A Raisin in the Sun" at age 26. The Chicago native's play made theatrical history as the first work by a black woman to be produced on Broadway.

Director Ilesa Duncan said there is always something to be learned in the play. "A Raisin in the Sun" has universal themes that humanity is continually faced with, such as trying to escape a difficult situation or improve your situation if you're living in poverty," she said. "The stories of trying to realize your hopes and dreams and family struggles are as old as time. Those things are intrinsic to human kind and that what makes the story a classic," Duncan said.

Tickets are $9 for the general public and $7 for CLC students, staff, Alumni Association members and seniors 65 and over. A sign language interpreter will be provided for the Feb. 23 performance. For more information or tickets, call (847) 543-2300 or visit www.clcillinois.edu/tickets. The James Lumber Center for the Performing Arts is located on the CLC Grayslake Campus, 19351 W. Washington Ave.

Danielle McKenzie of Waukegan plays the role of Beneatha Younger and Nyoka Duerson of Gurnee plays the part of "Mama" Lena Younger.

'Pillsbury Fix It Fast' cookbook helps cut meal preparation times

Tom Witom

COOKING BY THE BOOK

Nowadays, time is of the essence. Often complicated meal preparation must give way to practical considerations. But fast doesn't have to mean tasteless home-cooked chow.

A practical cookbook, "Pillsbury Fix It Fast: Dinner Ready in 25 Minutes or Less" (Wiley, 2005) offers advice for time-challenged cooks. It features 140 recipes attuned to busy lifestyles.

In it, find time-saving suggestions on easy-to-prepare sandwiches from garlicky turkey burgers to fish hero sandwiches; soups and chowders, including southwestern chicken rice and shrimp-vegetable noodle; and main-dish salads such as ham and vegetable pasta and antipasto with balsamic vinaigrette. The book also provides recipes for stove-top and grilled entrees.

Each recipe comes with a basic "quick fix" time-saving suggestion, from make-ahead hints to ideas for reducing cleanup steps. For example: frozen chicken breasts thaw quickly in the microwave on defrost in 3 to 5 minutes. For perfect "al dente" pasta, cook the minimum time specified on the package, then remove a noodle with a slotted spoon, run it briefly under cold water and bite into it. It should be firm but cooked through with no hard center and not be mushy.

PEPPERY CAJUN SHRIMP

Serves 6 to 8

- 4 fresh lemons
- 1/4 pound (1 stick) butter
- 1 can (14 oz.) chicken broth
- 4 tablespoons ground black pepper
- 2 teaspoons hot pepper sauce
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 2 teaspoons sea salt
- 3 pounds unpeeled, uncooked shrimps
- Crusty French bread

Preheat oven to 400° F. Extract juice from two of the lemons and thinly slice others. In a saucepan, melt butter and stir in lemon juice, chicken broth, Worcestershire sauce, ground pepper, hot pepper sauce and salt.

Pour half cup of the sauce into the bottom of a 4-qt. oval roaster. Arrange half of the shrimp in bottom of dish and top with half of the sliced lemons. Add the remaining shrimp in a layer over the lemons and top them with the remaining lemon slices. Pour the rest of the sauce into the dish and place, uncovered, in preheated oven.

Cook for 25 to 30 minutes, until shrimp turn pink and are opaque throughout. Stir after 10 minutes of cooking to move outer shrimp to center and shrimp in center to the outside to ensure even cooking. Ladle some shrimp and broth into individual bowls. Use fingers to remove shells from shrimp and dip them into the broth. Mop up the broth with French bread.

Sausage and Potato Skillet Sizzle

- 1 Tbl. butter or margarine
- 1 cup frozen bell pepper and onion stir-fry (from 1-lb. bag)
- 1 bag (1 lb. 4 oz.) refrigerated new potato wedges
- One-quarter tsp. pepper
- 6 oz. cooked, smoked turkey kielbasa or Polish sausage, cut into one-quarter inch slices

- One and one-half cups frozen broccoli florets (from 14-oz. bag)
- One and one-half cups frozen cauliflower florets (from 1-lb. bag)
- One-half cup shredded Cheddar and American cheese blend (2 oz.)

In a 10-inch nonstick skillet, melt butter over medium heat. Add bell pepper and onion stir-fry, potatoes and pepper; cook 10 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Add kielbasa, broccoli and cauliflower; mix well. Cover; cook 8 to 10 minutes or until vegetables are tender, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat. Sprinkle with cheese; cover and let stand 1 to 2 minutes or until cheese is melted.

Quick fix: Serve the finished meal right from the skillet. Just place it on a hot pad in the center of the table and add a serving spoon. There will be no serving dish to wash. (Makes 4 servings)

A flavor that makes the heart grow
fonder year-round

For a gift straight from the heart, nothing quite says "love" the way that dessert does. To deliver an endearing message to friends or family celebrating an engagement, bridal shower, or wedding-related activity, you may want to whip up some scrumptious cinnamon hearts. These treats are so easy to prepare, children can help, making these "sweet nothings" a gift from the whole family.

Cinnamon Hearts

Makes 16 rolls

Dough

- 4 1/2 to 5 cups all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 envelopes Fleischmann's RapidRise Yeast
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 2 large eggs

Cinnamon Filling

- 1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 1/2 tablespoons ground cinnamon
- 1 cup finely chopped dates or raisins

Powdered Sugar Glaze

- 1 cup powdered sugar, sifted
- 1 to 2 tablespoons milk
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract

In a large bowl, combine 1 cup flour, sugar, undissolved yeast, and salt. Heat water, milk, and butter until very warm (120° to 130°F). Gradually add to flour mixture. Beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add eggs and 1 cup flour; beat 2 minutes at high speed. Stir in enough remaining flour to make a soft dough. Knead on lightly floured surface until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Cover; let rest 10 minutes.

Divide dough into 2 equal pieces; roll each to 12- x 10-inch rectangle. Brush with butter, sprinkle evenly with sugar, cinnamon, and dates. Roll up tightly from long ends as for jelly roll; pinch seams to seal. Mark each roll into 16 equal pieces. Starting with first mark, slice every other mark 3/4 of the way through dough. Slice remaining marks all the way through dough to make 8 rolls from each piece of dough. Spread apart the two halves of each roll like a fan. Gently flatten with hand; shape to resemble hearts. Place on greased baking sheets. Cover, let rise in warm, draft-free place until doubled in size, about 45 minutes.

Bake at 375°F for 15 to 20 minutes or until done. Remove from sheets; cool on wire rack. Drizzle with Powdered Sugar Glaze.

Powdered Sugar Glaze: In a small bowl, combine powdered sugar, milk and vanilla extract. Stir until smooth.

If love had to be summed up in a flavor, these cinnamon hearts would say it all. These mouthwatering treats melt into a comforting sweetness, making them a heartfelt gift for those in love.

Straight from the heart

Valentine's Day ideas you create

On your special Valentine

Finding the right gift for Valentine's Day can be difficult, but creating a truly special memory for your Valentine can be even more challenging. To help hopeless romantics plan an extraordinary Valentine's Day event, Brach's, one of America's leading candy companies, offers the following ideas to sweeten the day and making a lasting impression on that special someone.

Send the day sweetly soaring

On Valentine's Day, insert wrapped candles, along with romantic messages about your Valentine into red, pink, and white latex balloons. Inflate each balloon using a small helium tank, which can be purchased at a party rental store, and tie them off with a ribbon. Greet your special Valentine with this balloon bouquet and encourage them to pop the balloons to read your romantic musings and enjoy the sweetness inside.

Get the Conversation Flowing

Before you sit down for a romantic Valentine's Day dinner, make sure you have something to talk about. Starting with six to eight picture frames of various sizes, use craft glue to attach your favorite Brach's Large and Small Conversation Hearts sayings to the exterior of the frames, using phrases such as "BE MINE" and "KISS ME" to help set the mood. Insert photos of your favorite romantic memories together, and place the frames at the center of the table for a real conversation.

Enjoy a sweet treat with your sweet heart

For a special Valentine's Day treat, plan ahead and make a batch of Brach's Cinnamon Imperials "Royalty" Fudge. Start by covering the inside of an 8-inch square baking pan with foil, and then lightly butter the foil. Cut one pound of dark chocolate into one-inch squares, combine the chocolate with one 14-ounce can of sweetened condensed milk in a double boiler, and melt until smooth. Pour the melted mixture into the pan and sprinkle one cup of Brach's Cinnamon Imperials over the top. After refrigerating overnight, cut into 1-inch squares and serve them following a romantic dinner.

Present a prescription for sweet dreams

Wash and clean out an empty prescription bottle with soap and water. Next, write a "prescription" for sweet dreams on a blank white mailing label and affix to the bottle. Fill the bottle with Brach's Sour Cherry Jels and give your loved one instructions to take one dose nightly before bed. Even if you're no love doctor, your sweetie will get a kick out of your creativity.

SWEET TREAT TOTE

What You'll Need:

- Pink construction paper • Red yarn • Brach's Small Conversation Hearts • Hole punch • Sheet of heavy, clear plastic (such as transparency film or a school report cover)

Directions:

1. Starting with the plastic, cut out a heart shape measuring approximately five inches in diameter.
2. Trace the heart shape onto the piece of construction paper, and cut out the heart to match the plastic one.
3. Holding these hearts together, punch holes every inch around the perimeter of the hearts.
4. Using the yarn, lace these hearts together to create a pouch.
5. After lacing the hearts together, tie the yarn off into a pretty bow and add a personal note to your Valentine.

VALENTINE NOUGAT NECKLACE

What You'll Need:

- Brach's Valentine Nougats • 18-inch strip of one-inch-wide red or pink ribbon • Craft glue

Directions:

1. Starting three inches from the end of the ribbon, use craft glue to attach Brach's Valentine Nougats every two inches, stopping three inches from the opposite end.
2. Tie the opposite ends of the ribbon together.
3. Place the necklace around the neck of your favorite sweetheart, or create various sizes for anklets and bracelets, outfitting the entire family in sweet treats.

Valentine's Day fun for kids: Brach's suggests quick and easy edible creations and cool crafts that will have kids saying 'Be Mine'

SWEETIE CAKE

What You'll Need:

- White cake mix • Red food coloring • Heart-shaped Bundt pan • White cake frosting • Brach's Valentine's Day Candy including Cinnamon Jelly Hearts, and Cinnamon Imperial Hearts

Directions:

1. Under the supervision of an adult, bake the cake in the Bundt pan according to box directions, mixing a few drops of red food coloring into the batter prior to baking, tinting the batter pink.
2. After taking the cake out of the oven, turn the cake over onto a cooling rack, allowing it to cool completely before frosting.
3. Once cooled, place the cake onto a large plate.
4. Frost the cake until it is completely covered, inside the ring and out.
5. Now that it's frosted, it's time to decorate. Use the Brach's Cinnamon Jelly Hearts and Cinnamon Imperials.

SUGARY SWEET SALUTATION

What You'll Need:

- Red or pink construction paper • Brach's Small Conversation Hearts • Craft glue

Directions:

1. On a scratch piece of paper, write out a funny message to your Valentine, incorporating sayings found on Brach's Conversation Hearts.
2. Next, re-write the message on the piece of construction paper, leaving room where you have used sayings to insert the actual hearts in place of the written words.
3. Glue the appropriate Conversation Hearts where you had incorporated those sweet sayings to complete the salutation.
4. Present the handmade Valentine to your favorite loved one.

opening this week

Curious George: George, the inquisitive little guy with an insatiable taste for adventure, sets off in a brand new tale for the big screen, where his spunky and fun-loving nature endears him to new friends he meets along the way, and (of course) lands him in a series of misadventures. Will Ferrell lends his voice to The Man with the Yellow Hat in this animated feature. Dick Van Dyke, Drew Barrymore and Eugene Levy are also among the distinguished cast of voices. (G)

Final Destination 3: Set six years after the original "Final Destination" film, the latest installment in the series centers around a high school senior who has a premonition of a fatal roller coaster accident involving herself and all her friends. When the premonition proves true, those who have "cheated death" and survived the accident are forced to deal with the repercussions of escaping their fate. "Final Destination 3" stars Ryan Merriman ("The Ring Two") and Mary Elizabeth Winstead. James Wong ("Final Destination") directs the film. (R)

The Pink Panther: Steve Martin reimagines the role of Inspector Clouseau, a man whose deductive powers are limited, whose command of the language is frightening and whose investigative approach is downright dangerous. Also stars Beyoncé Knowles as international pop superstar Xania and Jean Reno as Clouseau's new sidekick, Gendarme Gilbert Ponton. (PG)

Been there, seen that

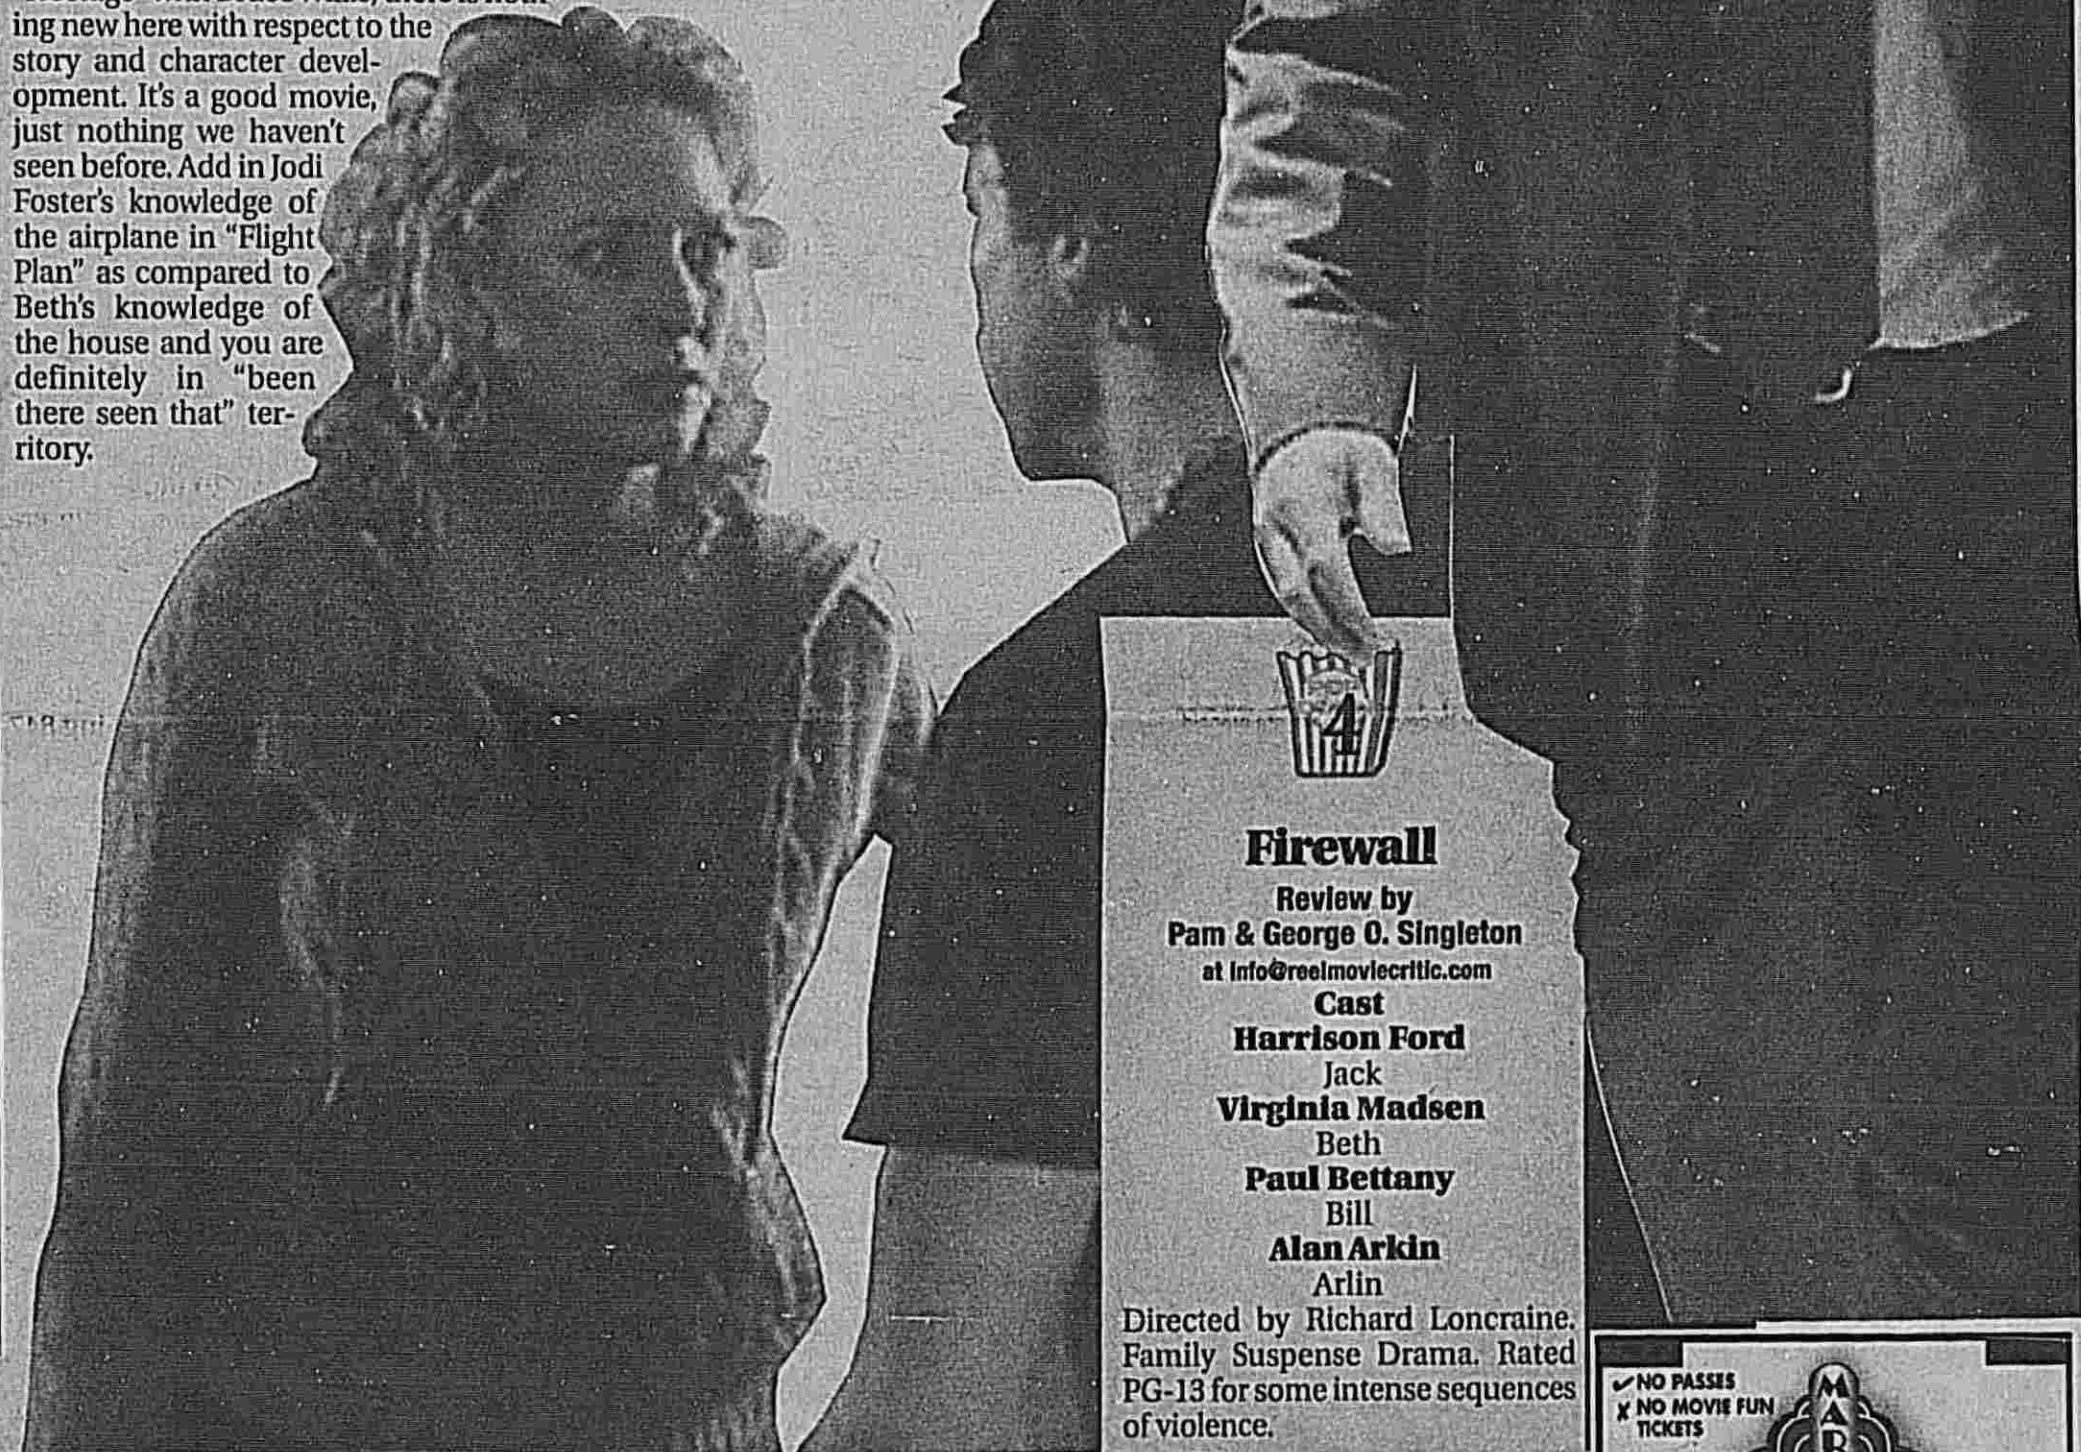

Jack & Beth (Harrison Ford and Virginia Madsen of "Sideways") live an idyllic life in Seattle, in a home she designed, which has a killer view of Puget Sound. They have two children, a boy eight, and a 14-year-old daughter with the prerequisite bad attitude. Their lives change when a gang led by Bill (Paul Bettany of "A Beautiful Mind") kidnaps Beth and the kids. They will be killed unless Jack, the VP of Security at Landrock Pacific Bank, transfers $100 million to an off-shore bank account.

Not only is Bill, a great villain, one step ahead of Jack and Beth as they try to outsmart him, his plan is so ingenious that he's framed Jack for the crime without any trace that a third party ever existed.

Close calls, hi-tech wizardry and computer manipulation, with a couple of interesting twists, buoy the all too familiar plot along until Jack and Beth save the day.

For moviegoers with a recollection of Mel Gibson's "Ransom" and "Hostage" with Bruce Willis, there is nothing new here with respect to the story and character development. It's a good movie, just nothing we haven't seen before. Add in Jodi Foster's knowledge of the airplane in "Flight Plan" as compared to Beth's knowledge of the house and you are definitely in "been there seen that" territory.

However, if you are a Harrison Ford fan, looking for him to return to the drama of Tom Clancy's "Patriot Games," you must see the film before it comes out on DVD. It more than qualifies as good solid entertainment.

The sandwich generation: stressed but blessed

I wonder if that "squeezeably soft" protector of the American way, Mr. Whipple, has gone to the dark side, in other words, Washington D.C. You see, I'm part of the "sandwich generation," the growing number of largely middle-aged women squeezed between caring for their children and aging parents. We can thank modern medicine for giving our elders longer lives. And we can thank Washington for then trying to strangle the life out of them by putting the squeeze on Medicare and Medicaid.

So for "Gen S" its business as usual: make do with a haphazard patchwork of home care, limited social services, and costly private agencies. Still, as noted in Focus on the Family's "Complete Guide to Caring for Aging Loved Ones," we do a bang up job providing "80 to 90 percent of care needed by the elderly at home," avoiding long-term nursing home care "that ranges from $35,000 to $60,000 a year and higher." Not only do we keep our loved ones out of nursing homes that can drain their life savings within months, we save taxpayers big bucks when these seniors don't end up on the Medicaid rolls.

As a result, I'm scared, and so is my 77-year-old mother. For one she's seen this caregiver in action before, and that's without a job and kids in tow. When a stroke left my father-in-law's speech garbled and his wife the breadwinner, I was honored to be his Clara Barton. Armed with a briefcase containing a paper clock for telling time; flashcards of vowels, consonants, then finally words; and arithmetic problems scrawled in an engineer's careful handwriting, he needed endless hours of therapy and encouragement. (We chose to commiserate over beer and candy after the inevitable setbacks, like turning his garage into a carport during a driving lesson.) But he was able to regain his independence by receiving "custodial" care at home, although it wasn't covered under Medicare then or, sadly now.

Leslie Clazier-Werner

Now as for mom and I, we've locked arms and wills over the past six weeks getting her back on her feet after a nasty fall. And we've never laughed so much since she moved near me six years ago. Despite fear and frustration, there's still joy when generations unite to face life's hurdles. Family bonds create a bridge that enriches the lives of young and old. Our children see what it means to love responsibly. Our elders are affirmed as a precious resource, not an economic drain. And we as caregivers learn what it means to age successfully, especially with a role model like my mom.

WINES

DiCarlo's Fine Wine and Spirits wine buyer Paul Cutler Valentines picks. DiCarlos located in Mundelein.

The perfect present

Since it's opening 37 years ago, Antioch Fine Wine and Liquors has sold at least one item with the ability to make any occasion special and though it's not wine, the Champagne Perrier Jouët gift package is an unforgettable gift sure to set that special someone's heart aflutter.

The set includes a pair of hand painted glass flutes and bottle of Tête de Cuvée champagne. Perrier Jouët launched its famous "flower bottle" in 1969 and since then it has become one of the world's most recognized light-bodied champagnes. The package sells for $109.95.

"It's top of the line. It's best of the best," said manager Larry Ellis. "It's got everything you need for romance and it's hand painted. To me, that's what it's all about."

Ellis also recommended the 2004 Turn Me Red wine from Austria. Made with Zweigelt grapes, this every-day-wine comes in red packaging and sells for $7.99 a bottle. "It has a little bit of fruit to it and it's not very dry," said Ellis.

Those looking to celebrate Valentine's Day on the weekend may want to check out the store's 13th Annual Reserve Wine Tasting at 7:30 p.m. on Feb. 18. The cost is $40 per person and only the best wines are offered at the event.

"It's the finest tasting we do and one of the best in Lake County," said Ellis.

For more information, call the store at 847-395-3540.

The race for the Lake County Sheriff's seat is getting ugly as the countdown to the March 21 primary approaches.

Incumbent Sheriff Gary Del Re, who is running unopposed in the March primary, has the advantage of being in the catbird seat while the two contenders for the Democratic nomination scramble to distinguish themselves from their opponents' description of each other as a lawyer with no front-line police experience and a disgruntled sheriff's office employee.

Larry Oliver of Gurnee is running on a platform of restoring accountability, honor and integrity to an office, which has been dogged by what Oliver refers to as "ethical and fiscal violations" evidenced by, among other things, the indictment of two former jail superintendents for pension fraud.

Oliver, who brings 26 years of service in the sheriff's office, believes his experience on the streets of Lake County gives him the edge because he is not a polished politician but a cop who brings sorely needed common sense to the post.

"Unless you've walked in the path of law enforcement and experienced the sacrifices of police officers and their families in Lake County, you will never understand the impact of your decisions," said Oliver.

Warm weather won't stop derby

By Jeff Gard

jgard@nwnewsgroup.com

The 46th annual Northern Illinois Conservation Club Ice Fishing Derby will be from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and from 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday, whether there is rain, snow, sun, ice or no ice.

Warm weather and currents have prevented a thick layer of ice from forming on much of the Chain O' Lakes this winter, but Conservation Club President Laura Golonka said the event never had been canceled.

"They can fish in a boat," she said. "They can fish from the shore. They can fish from a pier. They can fish from a tree. We always have the derby no matter what the weather is."

The derby's headquarters will be at the Thirsty Turtle Beach Bar and Grill, 42273 N. Woodbine Ave., Antioch, but satellite locations exist on Pistakee Lake, Lake Marie and Petite Lake.

The satellite claiming stations will be Oak Park Lounge, 801 Oak Grove Road, Johnsburg; Sand Bar & Grill, 40870 N. Douglas Ave., Antioch; and J.J. Fennagains - Food & Spirits, 25344 W. Richmond Ave., Antioch.

Each location will offer hourly cash prizes for the largest and small-

U.S. Republican Kirk talks Lake County

By Esther Cepeda

Special to Lakeland Media

Proving that while he spends much of his time in Washington D.C. he has the best interests of his Lake County electorate at heart, U.S. Rep. Mark Kirk (R-Highland Park) is preparing to unveil "The Suburban Agenda," an agenda designed to answer the problems faced by a suburban family as it moves through its day. Kirk will present his brainchild at the House GOP Members' retreat on Feb. 9.

"Suburban districts in Congress outnumber all others," said Kirk. "(The year) 2004 was the first election in which suburban voters outnumbered big cities and rural areas."

Kirk believes the suburbs have changed dramatically in the past two decades. Cities have spilled into suburbs, which are now densely populated by singles, minorities, and people with an urban temperament. By the millions, families with children have migrated to outer suburbs, and while Kirk sees the Republican Party crumbling in the cities and inner suburbs of the Midwest and East, he sees outer suburbs all over the country as more conservative and overwhelmingly Republican.

His theory is that outer suburbs are home to entrepreneurs and managers who run family-owned companies or are in sales. They deal constantly with government—the IRS, regulatory agencies, bureaucrats of all types—and find the experience frustrating. These outer suburbs are more likely to vote for Republicans who would trim government.

To ensure the needs of his suburban constituents are met, Kirk is attempting to bring attention to the problems a typical suburban family faces as it goes through its day. He formed a "Suburban Agenda Caucus" comprised of 25 members of Congress representing suburban Philadelphia, Las Vegas, Orlando, New York and others who together developed a list of what he calls "20 defining issues to win the suburbs and keep our Republican majority" in the House.

"You wake up in the morning and you might turn on the radio and hear about Iraq and the war on terror and you want it solved, but then you think, 'OK, I've got to get to work,'" Kirk said. "How long does it take to get there? Am I going to drive by strip malls the whole way? Can't we have more open space? I get to work, the average American has five jobs in a working life. If I switch, I don't want to be left high and dry without health insurance. Current COBRA regulations allow me to pay for only 18 months of coverage. Why not indefinite?"

"Meanwhile, my kids went to school. My wife has probably looked up to see whether there's a pedophile in our neighborhood, but why shouldn't our school district be able to pay the federal government $50 to do a background check on new teachers and coaches?"

"Also, the suburbs have an increased presence of youth gangs. In our district, in Lake County—the 16th wealthiest in the country—we've identified 3,000 members of international gangs. Why shouldn't the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms not also be the Bureau of Gangs to help localities?"

"We also need to clarify the 4th Amendment, so that privacy rights do not extend to school lockers, to make sure there are no weapons or drugs in school."

On healthcare Kirk said, "Especially in Illinois we need to make sure key medical specialists aren't sued out of the state. Think about it, why are there no neurosurgeons south of I-80?"

"You wake up in the morning and you might turn on the radio and hear about Iraq and the war on terror and you want it solved, but then you think, 'OK, I've got to get to work, ... how long does it take to get there? Am I going to drive by strip malls the whole way? Can't we have more open space?"

U.S. Rep. Mark Kirk
(R-Highland Park)

Other items on the suburban agenda include a federal requirement that all medical records be made electronic by a certain date, and a "401-Kids" tax-benefited savings plan which would allow parents to set up accounts that children could use for college tuition, to purchase their first home, or start a business.

Also on the list is a federal law requiring filters to block pornography on computers in schools and libraries, a law to bar states from issuing driver's licenses to illegal immigrants, and a flat tax at 20 percent to replace the federal income tax.

Kirk doesn't expect to be able to enact all 20 of the items on his list but does hope to identify five or six key priorities to bring to the floor and fit into the overall framework of the $2.7 trillion spending plan President Bush sent to Congress this week.

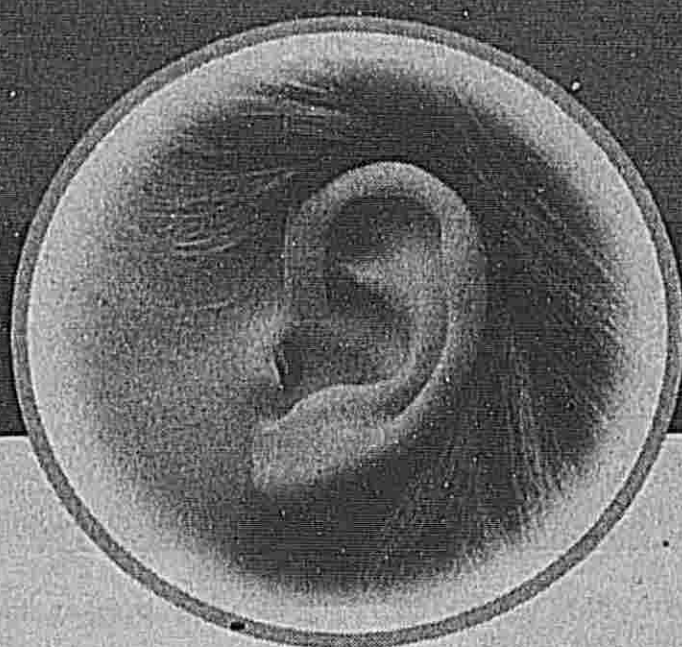

"I'd like to get it all done tomorrow but the Founding Fathers laid out a slow process and we'll work in that timeframe," said Kirk.

CARTER VISITS

Ex-Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter was mobbed on visit to St. Dismas Church Hall in Waukegan. Here he talks to Sheriff E.J. LaMagdalein, right, as Waukegan alderman Peter Lentine awaits his turn. —Photo by Jack Hagler. — February 12, 1976.

30 YEARS AGO 1976

A combined Waukegan-Lake County Port Authority, rather than a separate Chain O' Lakes Port Authority was one of the possibilities discussed by members of the Fox River-Chain O' Lakes Commission at a meeting held at Antioch Village Hall.

Subcommittee members had discussed the possibility of enlarging the geographical boundaries of the port district with Dick Kennedy of the Waukegan authority who "thought it was an interesting idea," according to State Representative Donald Deuster (R-Sylvan Lake), who headed the committee.

20 YEARS AGO 1986

The Antioch Village Board approved the preliminary plan submitted by Al

Little for his Plan Unit Development that he was proposing for 78 acres of land on Depot Street.

Little said that the plan he submitted to the board was just a preliminary plan and that actual building of the subdivision could be as many as two years away.

15 YEARS AGO 1991

Western Development Corporation officials announced that Gurnee Mills, a super regional shopping center, was on budget and on schedule.

An August 8, 1991, grand opening was set for the project, located on 326 acres at Route 132 and Hunt Club Road.

Medicare will challenge Lake County Seniors

It's a brave, new world for Medicare recipients who are forging ahead to join its prescription drug program in Lake County. You can complain about complexity, inequities and doubled government costs since it was advertised in 2003. You can insist it was political posturing to get something on the books going into the 2004 elections.

That's history, folks. You're dealing with the here and now. Politicians already have found their cover.

Now, you need to craft a plan that best suits most.

The basic plan generally has a $250 deductible. The co-payment is 25 percent of the medication up to $500, with an annual benefit cap of $2,250. Then, the math gets complicated.

Seniors began wading through more than 40 programs offered by 16 insurance companies in November. The drug program to help seniors pay for prescription medicine kicked in Jan. 1.

It is supposed to save money for people 65 and older, and eligible people with disabilities. About 3.6 million people have enrolled; about 42 million are eligible.

If you are like most Americans, choosing the right plan and insurance company is difficult, according to an Associated Press-Ipsos poll released Sunday. And 33 percent weren't even sure what to think.

Only 16 percent said it was easy. They probably worked for insurance companies or can cite chapter and subsection of the federal tax code.

If you are among the 39 million people who have not started, you might seek help from family members, agencies that cater to seniors or a trusted insurance agent.

In Lake County, Senior Services offers staffers and trained volunteers to help to sort out the drug plan.

Senior Services can be reached at (815) 344-3555. Other organizations to call are the McHenry County Senior Health Insurance Program at (815) 759-4203; the state Department of Financial and Professional Regulation at (800) 548-9034; and Medicare at (800) 633-4227. Its Web site, www.medicare.gov, has received good reviews.

The registration deadline is May 15 for coverage this year. The application period for 2007 is Nov. 15 to Dec. 31.

It's best to start studying now and signing up soon.

THERE WAS NOTHING WRONG WITH THE SUPERBOWL OFFICIATING!

OFF AND RUNNING

Esther J. Cepeda

Holding on to a slippery paycheck

If I've heard it once, I've heard it a million times. Every politician within rock throwing distance is droning a familiar mantra as their solution to the state's financial crisis: "I will work to bring more jobs to Illinois."

Well, first things first. Maybe instead of focusing solely on bringing new jobs to our state and our community, the politicians we vote for on March 21 should be working on keeping the jobs we already have. Why wring our hands about overseas outsourcing when many companies are simply moving their headquarters down the street to Chicago or to other states?

Here are some names and numbers on the casualties reported just in the last few weeks: Abbott Labs: 250, All-State: 600-700, Culligan: 200, Kraft: 5,325 in the Chicagoland area alone, Grubb & Ellis Corp.: 200, Hospira: 660, Tellular: 150. That's approximately 7,000 jobs that will either move out of the Lake County area or be lost all together.

Meanwhile, energy and healthcare costs continue to skyrocket, the Fed is resorting to boosting interest rates by one-quarter percentage point to 4.5 percent in order to combat inflation, and there are no less than 14 items on Lake County primary ballot asking for tax increases.

The Heartland Institute just released its annual "Illinois Poverty" report which shows the collar counties of Chicago have inched up to a 6.4 percent poverty rate, an already inadequate estimate since they were limited by census data from 2003. Is it any wonder people are feeling desperation?

Our elected officials must get it together to provide the tax-breaks, incentives, or whatever else is necessary to keep employers here where we need them so the residents of Lake County don't have to face even more grueling commutes, or worse, the unemployment line.

So when a bright-eyed politician hits you up with the standard handshake and smile ask not "What are you going to do to fix our financial crisis?" but "What are you going to do to make sure Lake County doesn't lose any more jobs?"

Show a little class

In this age of webcams, "Fear Factor," and personal hygiene blogs, we ask ourselves—like the song from the musical "Chicago" says—"what ever became of class?" Teresa Bartels sure showed some last week by removing herself from the crowd of Republican candidates hungrily snapping at Melissa Bean's 8th Congressional District seat. With only (!) $100,000 in her campaign fund, she felt it impractical to try to compete with her fellow candidates, brimming war chests. Continuing on despite her apparent lack of resources "doesn't fit with my approach to business, life and government," she said.

Bartels then went on to endorse Kathy Salvi as "the only other candidate who can beat Melissa Bean."

It's a pity that with all the lip service paid to "may the best man (or woman) win" it has already come down to who can write the fattest check. Still, you've got to applaud Bartels for falling on her own sword for the good of the Republican camp.

Rallying the troops

Mr. Hyde goes to Washington! On Valentines Day, 39 of Jack Benny's most loyal fans will descend on the nation's capital to participate in "The 39 Man March." Mayor Richard Hyde will be among the delegation trying to attract support from politicians to honor Waukegan's perennially-39 favorite son on the newly priced first-class postage stamp. Why Valentine's Day? JB's birthday, of course.

The fans will march from the Washington Monument to the U.S. Capital where they'll hold a rally. The U.S. Postal Service has its qualms because the movement started so recently, but the Benny fans are hoping to persuade officials with their incomparable devotion.

There's nothing quite like the rush of rolling up your shirt sleeves, traveling to our nation's capital and lobbying for a cause you believe in. Will they carry 39 creekly violins and scratch out "Love in Bloom," too?

Into the sunset

Oh, how easily a bit of our heritage slips through the cracks, seemingly unnoticed, another victim of the electronic age. On Jan. 27, Western Union announced, ironically, on its Web site that it would discontinue all Telegram and Commercial Messaging services. Heck, I would've bet 10 bucks that telegram service had gone away years ago but the finality of it struck me as sad. On May 24, 1844, a gentleman by the name of Samuel F.B. Morse sent the first telegram which read "What hath God Wrought?" Boy, did he hit the nail on the head.

Letters welcome

We welcome letters on public issues. Letters must include the author's full name, home address and day and evening telephone numbers. We limit letters to 300 words and one published letter every 30 days.

Election-related letters are limited to 200 words. All letters are subject to editing for length and clarity.

SEEING IT THROUGH

John Matijevich

Integrity is 2005 word of the year

When 2005 ended, there was the usual baited breath to find out who Time magazine would announce as the person of the year. There is no restriction that the person be a hero or a villain, but when Time surprised everyone by naming three that no one expected, it still turned out deserving, with no backlash. Naming Rock star Bono and Microsoft mogul Bill Gates along with his wife, Melinda were about as long shots as you can get, but when you understand why they were selected, hat's off to Time and those responsible for the choices.

Bono was given the honor for not just "talking the talk," but "walking the walk," for his monumental efforts to eradicate global poverty. His mouth and his money with endless speaking appearances and his personal contributions toward the cause have been meritorious.

Bill Gates and his Gates Foundation have been generous to very many worthwhile charitable causes. He has been very active in providing resources after the Katrina disaster.

For these persons of enormous wealth to share their good fortunes with many in need around the world is worthy of recognition.

A few weeks ago, I read of another yearly recognition award. It doesn't receive near as much attention, but it did arouse my curiosity. Every year, the Merriam-Webster Dictionary announces its Top Ten list of the words most frequently looked up on its on-line dictionary.

For 2005, the Word of the Year was "Integrity." The dictionary doesn't go into why one word or the other makes the list, only that those are the words searched for at the on-line hook-up. It is up to analysts and columnists to ponder what leads people to look up the words. So, I'll give it a try.

Other words listed in the top Ten that might give us a clue why "integrity" led the parade were the word "contempt" at No. 3, "filibuster" at No. 4, and "inept" at No. 10. Could it be that the internet users were focused on the state of affairs in the country and the world, with particular emphasis on political matters?

To be thorough, even though I thought I know what integrity means, I looked up the dictionary definition.. INTEGRITY 1..a firm adherence to a code of especially moral or artistic values; INCORRUPTIBILITY 2..an unimpaired condition; SOUNDNESS 3-the quality or state of being complete or undivided; COMPLETENESS. It also offers as a synonym; HONESTY. I guess that if I hadn't looked up the definition, I would have settled on TOTAL AND CONSISTENT HONESTY.

By the way, the Word of the Year in 2003 was "Democracy." We know that almost everyone in our country has a concept of the meaning of democracy. It makes you wonder why so many people are interested in democracy and integrity. Is there a link?

In 2003 we were deep into the Iraq War and the capture of Saddam Hussein. There was much talk of democracy. Much of the talk was whether democracy will ever come to Iraq, and was it any of our business to getting involved in what some called "nation-building" in a country so complex with ideologies as Iraq. I'm sure that the Iraq War and our involvement in it had much to do with the people's interest in the word "democracy."

It is quite easy to figure out why there was a wide interest and concern in the word "integrity" during the year 2005. There was a heightened debate over whether there were weapons of mass destruction in Iraq that led us to war. Some went so far as to say that the president outright lied to make the case, others were not as strong, but many thought that there was a pattern of deception on the issue.

It's no wonder, then, that "INTEGRITY" was the most searched for word in 2005.

I never make predictions, but what's your guess on the Word of the Year for 2006? As much as I would like it to be PEACE, the handwriting on the wall seems to be that CORRUPTION will make it, hands down.

Annexation raises concerns

An annexation by the city of Waukegan that has been a source of contention for several months finally was approved for 63 acres of land in unincorporated Warren Township, though some residents of the parcels have said they may pursue legal action to stop the move.

The first ordinance calls for the city to annex 10 acres of property east of River Road, while the other allows for the annexation of 53 acres on both the east and west sides of River Road. Both areas are west of Interstate 94, east of the Des Plaines River and south of Route 120.

The land is divided into 11 residential parcels of five or more acres.

Alderman Rafael Rivera (9th Ward), whose ward will absorb the property, voted against both measures Feb. 6, as did Alderman Edith Newsome (5th).

Attorney Pardys, who represents the residents, suggested that the city enter into a pre-annexation agreement with his clients that would ensure those residents would not be forced to hook up to city water and sewer, which he said would cost them thousands of dollars.

But the city did not include such an agreement in the ordinance, and Alderman Larry TenPas (6th) balked at the idea.

"To have a pre-annexation agreement is absolutely lunatic," he said. "It's not going to happen. We have the right to bring them in. If you want to go to court, I say go to court. You'll be happy, we won't be happy. We'll have to fight you and we'll win."

Kindergarten concerns

Parents of incoming kindergartners at Andrew Cooke Magnet School in Waukegan have expressed concern recently about where their children will attend their first year of elementary school.

That worry began late last month, when parents of prospective students received a letter from Cooke Magnet's principal, Linda Meczyk, explaining that incoming kindergarten students would possibly attend class in a district-wide kindergarten center beginning next year.

He explained that overflowing classrooms had made it necessary for the administration to pursue at least one kindergarten facility, which would most likely be at Whittier Early Childhood Center, 901 N. Lewis Ave., starting next year.

"If I stand before you and say space is not issue, I would be less than honest with you," Batiste explained at the meeting. "We are having severe space issues for accommodating students in the buildings we currently have."

Many parents made emotional statements during the meeting with Batiste, including Julie Ahern, a third grade teacher at Cooke Magnet, who said her daughter would be entering the kindergarten program next year. "I not only have a child accepted here, but am a teacher here and know firsthand what the children would miss," she said. "They would never come back the same. We plea that you help keep the children here. It would not be the same. I know what happens here everyday."

Train station opens early

Officials from the village of Grayslake and Metra dedicated the new Washington Street train station, located on Washington Street, just west of Lake Street. The station will serve Metra's North Central Line.

"The dedication of the Washington Street station is the culmination of a 15-year process to bring a commuter rail station on the Metra North Central Line to the residents of Grayslake," said Mayor Tim Perry. "This project illustrates another possible transportation initiative made possible through interagency cooperation."

Humphrey visits Wauconda

Park City Alderman Betty Humphrey ventured west to see how things are done in Wauconda, attending a village board meeting.

"I was on the (Park City) board for 14 years, then I have been back for one and a half," she said. "We're thrilled with our plans for the new village hall, at the former Croatian Center building."

The visit, to see how the consent agenda worked, also allowed Humphrey to meet up with a former Park City City Council regular attendee.

Speaking of making the rounds, so is newly elected Wauconda Township Assessor Pat Oaks. Oaks was at an Island Lake Village Board meeting with some other township officials. She plans to visit many Wauconda area government meetings in the coming weeks. Oaks started as assessor on Jan. 1.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dedicated people working together

It is not always easy for elected officials to hear the viewpoints of their constituents during the busy legislative session. U.S. Senator Obama held a town hall meeting in Wheeling. After the event, Sen. Obama flew directly to Washington for an important vote in the Senate. That wasn't poor scheduling—it was typical scheduling for a dedicated public servant.

Our current local State officials, including state Rep. Kathy Ryg and state Senator Terry Link, work just as hard. They have made a great effort to spend as much time as possible in their districts, often neglecting their own personal commitments to better serve the people they represent. I want to thank Rep. Ryg and Senator Link for working so hard to represent the needs of our community, and I invite anyone who has not met our representatives to attend their next town hall meeting at the Gurnee Village Hall on Feb. 13 at 6 p.m.

If you can, stick around for the Village Board meeting, and watch Mayor Kovarik and a group of trustees who are dedicated to truly representing the best interests of all of Gurnee. Together, these people are all proving that there is a better way. It's people dedicated to service working together for the common good.

Shortcomings of the All Kids Health Insurance Act

During the two week fall veto session of the Illinois legislature a bill was introduced and passed that expands state paid health insurance for Illinois children. This bill, known as the All Kids Health Insurance Act (HB 806), will provide insurance to children who's family income is too great for them to be covered under the Illinois Kid Care Insurance program.

I am in favor of every Illinois citizen, especially every child, having good health insurance. However, I voted against the All Kids legislation because it was rushed into and out of the General Assembly without specific details including any indication of what it would cost or how Illinois taxpayers would pay for it. Also, unlike the present Kid Care program for poor families which excludes the children of parents who are in Illinois illegally, the All Kids plan guarantees coverage to children from middle income families, regardless of their parents' legal status, on the first day they move to Illinois.

The enactment of major legislation by the Illinois General Assembly has always been, and should be, a studied and deliberate event. As such, the creation and approval of major legislation takes time, usually months and sometimes years. This was not the case with the All Kids Health Insurance Act. All Kids, although it involved a major new addition to Illinois entitlement programs with major new spending, took just a few days. This amazing feat was pushed by the governor and was accomplished by attaching All Kids to a minor bill called the Illinois Prisoner Transport Bill. The original bill was then thrown out and replaced with the All Kids bill. In just eight calendar days the All Kids legislation, with details to be filled in by the Illinois Department of Healthcare and Family Services and paid for with massive yet unknown amounts of tax dollars from an in the red Illinois general fund, was sent to the governor for signature. The governor signed this legislation that he had forced through the General Assembly on Nov. 15, 2005.

The concept of the All Kids legislation is good. However, I believe, enabling legislation must create specific provisions and not be just a reflection of a good concept. Lawmakers considering any bill, especially one that will prove to be as complex and costly as all kids, should have the time and resources to do a thorough study. The old joke in regard to hot dogs and laws and the suggestion no person would like either if he or she saw how they were made is certainly applicable to the law the Illinois General Assembly passed as the All Kids Health Insurance Act.

Now the Illinois Department of Healthcare and Family Services is attempting to decide specific provisions of the All Kids insurance program, including subsidized premium amounts, so that it may begin to provide health insurance to Illinois children whose middle income parents have elected to not insure their children in the past. Although no start up date was provided in HB806 for the ALL KIDS insurance, the Department has set July 1, 2006 as the starting date and is now "pre-enrolling" children in the program whether or not their parents are in Illinois legally. After July 1, broad coverage, including dental and eye care, will be available to uninsured children, regardless of pre-existing medical conditions, on the day they become Illinois residents.

Certainly, every member of the Illinois General Assembly would hope that Illinois is viewed as a great place to live. However, I do not wish that attraction to be the result of our State's entitlement programs. I will not support a program like All Kids which is made immediately available to those parents who are living in Illinois illegally or to those who choose to move to Illinois to receive its benefits.

A better approach to making Illinois a more attractive place to live or to move to would be the enactment of effective programs aimed at significantly expanding good job opportunities. Certainly, for children in any state, the key to good health insurance is a good job for their moms and dads. Plus, good jobs mean stronger families living in better homes. Good jobs increase self respect and lower crime rates. Also, if Illinois could increase quality employment opportunities, our State would begin to see significant increases in employment tax collections. One of the benefits from this increased revenue would be our ability to provide more funding to our schools to help insure that every child in Illinois would receive a good education. I believe education is the lasting key to a good job and a better quality of life for all of us in Illinois.

As the Illinois General Assembly begins its work this year, I hope we are all committed to finding solutions to the many difficult issues we face in our State. Many thorny problems exist in areas such as education, transportation, health care and human services. However, I believe we must stay focused on the task of bringing more good jobs to the people of Illinois. If we can be successful in this effort, good things are sure to follow.

Scholarship drive helps kids go to camp

By Jeff Gard

jgard@nwnewsgroup.com

Some of the 792 children who received partial or full scholarships to YMCA Camp Duncan in Ingleside last year might one day return as counselors.

Camp Director Rona Roffey said two of her college-age staff last year attended camp on scholarships as kids.

"When you know that your parents can't afford it, and you get to go anyway," Roffey said, "you grow such a loyalty to camp that you come back."

Last year YMCA Camp Duncan raised $145,027 through its annual scholarship campaign, which included a $51,735 contribution from YMCA of Metropolitan Chicago. This year, organizers hope to raise at least $76,000 by the end of April.

Executive Director Kim Kiser said the funds benefitted kids who attended resident and day camps, as well as a number of specialty medical camps.

"Last year, every qualifying applicant received some type of money whether it was partial or full," Kiser said.

The 278-acre camp has a high ropes course, climbing tower, lake, and many other activities.

Kiser said the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attacks and slumping economy had made fundraising more difficult. Families who once donated now call the camp looking for scholarships.

"We love helping them because they have been helping the camp all along," Kiser said.

Camp Duncan often partners with other organizations, such as the Illinois Fire Safety Alliance, to run specialty medical camps. Each year, the camp opens its facilities to children with burn scars, diabetes or Tourette's Syndrome, for example.

Kiser said the camps allowed children to thrive in the absence of bullying or substance abuse, which have become more prevalent in schools in recent years.

"When you have them overnight for sleeping, eating, and activities, it is amazing what you can accomplish," Kiser said.

"More than ever, I think a camp experience is needed."

To donate, call YMCA Camp Duncan at (847) 546-8086 or go to the Web site at www.ymcacampduncan.org.

House approves Osmond's bill to prohibit ID theft criminals from changing their names

The Illinois House unanimously voted 112-0 to pass a bill sponsored by State Rep.

JoAnn D. Osmond (R-Antioch) to prohibit those convicted of identity theft or aggravated identity theft from changing their names at any given point in time. People convicted of identity theft have a strong incentive to change their names after the two years have passed upon completion of their sentences, said Osmond, adding that those offenders do, in fact, change their names and continue the same illegal activity, but under different names in the hopes of not being detected.

"It is important for our communities and the people living in them to be kept safe from identity theft, our nation's fastest growing crime," said Osmond, "This bill will prevent these predatory type offenders from being allowed to avoid detection by not allowing them to change their names."

Proponents to House Bill 4179 include the Lake County States Attorney, Illinois Association of Chiefs of Police, Illinois Bankers Association, Illinois Sheriff's Association and Illinois State Police.

House Bill 4179 next moves to the Senate for further consideration.

Senate seat up for grabs as Republican candidates for the 31st District discuss the issues

By Esther Cepeda

Special to Lakeland Media

The apprentice is seeking to unseat the master in the 31st District Senate race. Suzanne Simpson, 51, a former state representative and Warren Township supervisor, faced the difficult decision to stay the course with her plans to run for the 31st Senate District post after having been asked to do so by Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis.

Geo-Karis, 87, of Zion, has spent 26 years in the Senate had originally asked Simpson to run for the office back in 2002 when Geo-Karis thought she would retire in 2007. Geo-Karis, however, announced her intention to run again in September of 2005.

At the Republican Candidate Forum sponsored by the Avon, Grant, Antioch and Lake Villa townships, long-time friends Simpson and Geo-Karis went head to head.

Geo-Karis started by saying "I've served you for a number of years, you know me well. Why am I running again? Leadership and experience. I have seniority, and I can get along and work with the Democrats. We have a lot of work to do for veterans, for border protection, and we need to look after the people of Illinois first. And that's my promise, that I will do my best for the people of Illinois."

Simpson centered her pep talk around the issue of age: "It's a time for new energy in northern Lake County, the problems we have here are not new."

They've festered for years. It's time to break through the stagnation with new energy."

While both candidates agreed they would not support an increase in income tax for schools they differed on their opinion of what the greatest problem facing Lake County is.

Simpson said the biggest problem is "borrowing on our future. We can't continue to plan new programs with no money. You can't spend money you don't have."

Geo-Karis felt the biggest problem was being the minority party. "The Republicans are the minority. We're still under the subjugation of the governor and his party. All I can tell you is we have to work together and we can't do it by being mean. We have to find a way to do it and believe me I can find a way to sell it," she said.

The winner of the March 21 primary will face unopposed Democrat Michael Bond, who currently serves on the board of Woodland Elementary School District 50.

Lesson 1:

Varicose veins can be treated without surgery.

Treating varicose veins with surgery often ignores the source of the problem, resulting in high recurrence rates. Fortunately, there is a better way. Ultrasound technology can identify intricate details of the vein system, which are unique to each patient. Then, with today's non-surgical procedures, the source of the varicose veins is treated. These treatments are safe, highly effective, and don't require hospitalization – and they're covered by Medicare and most insurance plans. BASKETBALL

Team-based scheme leads Rams to success

Grayslake Central amasses impressive 16-4 record thanks to impressive duo

By Dan Patrick

dpatrick@mnnewsgroup.com

What a difference a year makes, well, maybe not if you're a Grayslake Rams fan. After posting an impressive 20-8 mark last season, the Rams are out with a vengeance in order to capture a regional title that has alluded them since 2000.

The team is definitely making a strong case for itself as Grayslake Central is currently on the short list of the area's best basketball squads along with Warren, Waukegan and Libertyville. At press time, the Rams have amassed a 16-4 record and are caught in a tight race for the Fox Valley Conference title this season.

If there's any question on how Grayslake got to its impressive standing, one would have to look no further than Ram dynamic duo Elias Washington and Travis Guy. Grayslake coach Tim Bowen said the Washington/Guy team has been extremely helpful.

"It definitely helps to have players like Elias (Washington) and Travis (Guy)," Bowen said. "They're both very good basketball players and they're able to everything on the floor. They can score, play good defense and you always want players like that. We're also pretty heavy on the seniors and having that experience is always good to have."

According to Bowen, Washington and Guy benefit from a familiarity of each other's playing style gained from years of mutual experience. Like any powerful 1-2 punch, Washington and Guy work with a seemingly psychic connection.

"They've played together for a long time and they've got a very good team approach," Bowen said. "They look to play together as a team as opposed to just working for themselves. They're extremely fundamental and that has led to good things for both of them."

Washington and Guy aren't the only ones contributing to the Ram success this season. The depth of the team is another defining attribute of Grayslake with nine seniors peppering the squad.

"We get contributions from a lot of guys. We have a lot of experience and a lot of seniors," Bowen said. "With players like (Andrew) Gedemer, (Mike) Morgan, Chris Brown, Steve Delger and Max Gutowski, we can do a lot of

'I think what has made us successful is that we've got a combo of good defense and a patient offense. We focus on not taking bad shots and making other people work for their shots.'

Tim Bowen
Grayslake coach

things because they all contribute at different times when we need them."

Unlike many area teams that feature a shoot-first-ask-questions-later offensive scheme, Bowen said his team takes a much more calculated approach. That, coupled with a stifling defense has led to the impressive .800 winning percentage.

"I think what has made us successful is that we've got a combo of good defense and a patient offense," Bowen said. "We focus on not taking bad shots and making other people work for their shots."

Grayslake's winning ways have come as a bit of surprise to Bowen. However, there's still a lot of work to be done before Bowen can truly call this season a success.

"Quite honestly, we expected a good team for this year, but I don't know if we knew that we would reach such a high level of success," Bowen said. "At this point, every game counts. We're right in the middle of the conference race, so we've got quite a few games left that are really important to us."

Despite being on a seemingly sure-fire path back to the 20-win plateau, Bowen said his team has not let the winning go to their heads. However, a little confidence never hurts in basketball and the Rams have the desire to measure up to their potential.

"I think they're pretty humble, we're definitely not going to take anyone for granted, especially when the regionals come," Bowen said. "We got beat by Glenbrook North in our second game pretty badly (74-48), so we know there are teams out there that can beat us, but I think they also realize what they're capable of this year."

WRESTLING

Any given Saturday Waukegan posts third place finish at regionals after disappointing 5-15 season

By Dan Patrick

dpatrick@nwnewsgroup.com

Unpredictability is something that all sports feed on. Teams that have struggled time and again can have a brief stroke of brilliance and defeat giants, if for a few fleeting contests.

Wrestling is one of the few sports that can truly turn on a dime. Any given match, any given meet, the underdog can come out the victor. Coach Steve Welter has had a taste of that as his Waukegan Bulldogs struggled to a 5-15 mark in dual meets only to finish third at an extremely competitive Waukegan regional.

"Overall, as a team, I thought we did better than I ever thought we would going in," Welter said. "They have really stepped it up when they needed to and this is the time when it counts."

As a team, Waukegan had one of the better showings for area teams, qualifying nine wrestlers for the upcoming sectional in Barrington. Bulldog big men were stellar in the tournament with Curtis Hines (189), Dennis Walsh (215) and Jon Bon (275) taking home championships in the top three weight classes.

Other Waukegan qualifiers include Dylan Fonder (112), Marvin Reddick (119), Fredrick Collins (135), Israel Figueroa (145), Joseph Dunn (152) and Mark Bon (160). Bulldog freshman Alex Sanchez (103) and senior Jose Garza (140) also barely missed the cut with fourth place finishes in their respective weight classes.

The regional was originally earmarked as a showdown between the high-powered Grant Bulldogs and Warren Blue Devils with the rest of the field picking up the scraps. Instead, the only true team showdown was between Warren and Waukegan as the Bulldogs finished just 9 points shy of Warren's 170.5 score. Waukegan also finished 90 points ahead of the fourth place finishers Lake Forest and Zion-Benton.

Welter attributed the breakout performance to his wrestlers realizing their potential.

'They're finally wrestling at the level where we knew they were capable of ... we've got a much better team than what our dual meet record shows. To finish third against tough teams like this is something I'm really proud of.'

Steve Welter
Coach

"They're finally wrestling at the level where we knew they were capable of," Welter said. "We've got a much better team than what our dual meet record shows. To finish third against tough teams like this is something I'm really proud of."

Waukegan's impressive showing in the regional can be directly tied to the big men with the Bulldogs controlling the top three weight classes. Welter's biggest man, Bon (21-6), has actually had a comeback of sorts this season.

"Bon just had knee surgery and has only been wrestling for the last month," Welter said. "He's still trying to get in shape, but if he can keep wrestling like he did today, he could go to state."

Bon's trouble with injury is indicative of the Waukegan wrestling situation this season. Much of the blame for the team's relatively poor dual record comes from a lack of healthy bodies to fill out a full wrestling card.

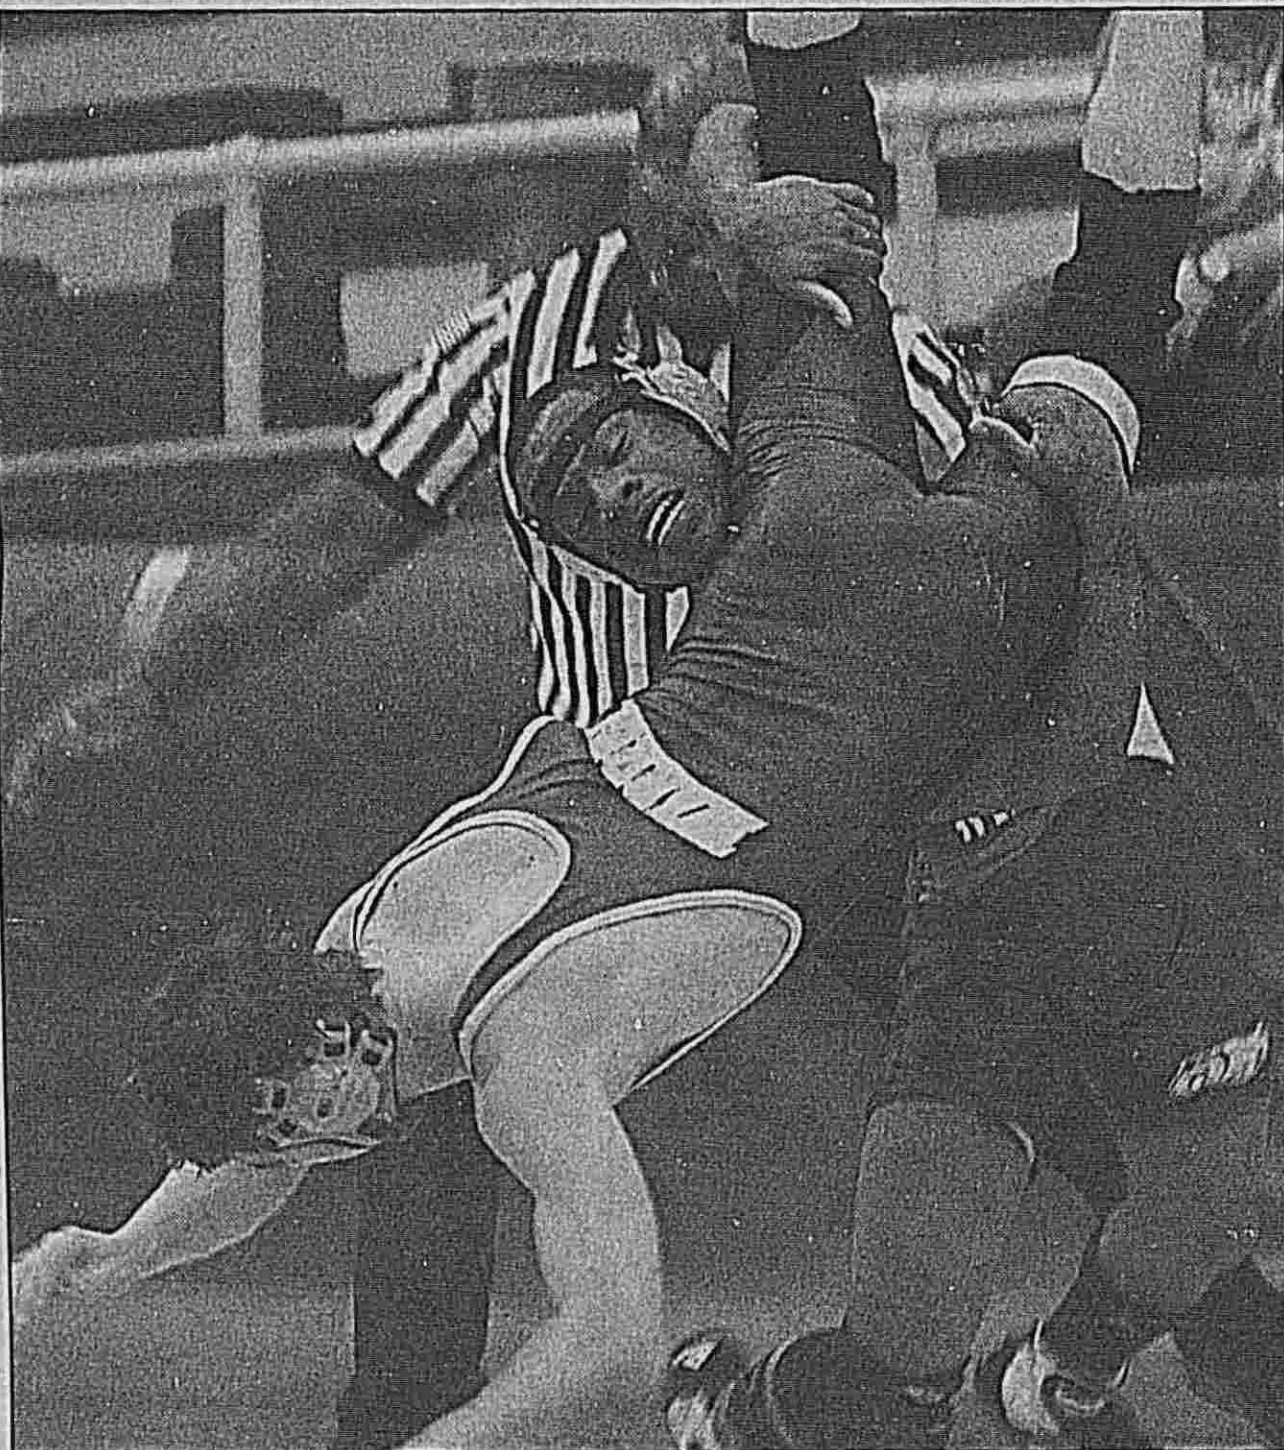

"Most of our season, we did not have wrestlers for the 140, 145 or 152 weight classes," Welter said. "You can't win many dual meets when you're giving up so many points from forfeit."

Welter has a lot of optimism for his individual stars for the Barrington Sectional this weekend. With Waukegan's impressive showing at the regional meet, there could be more surprises left for Bulldog opponents.

"I think we'll definitely get some guys down to state," Welter said. "All nine could get there, it just depends on the wrestler and the day. Anybody can get through there."

While the team might have a lot to be proud of in the short term, but Welter insists that this is only the beginning. Any given tournament in the future, the coach insists that his team will be there.

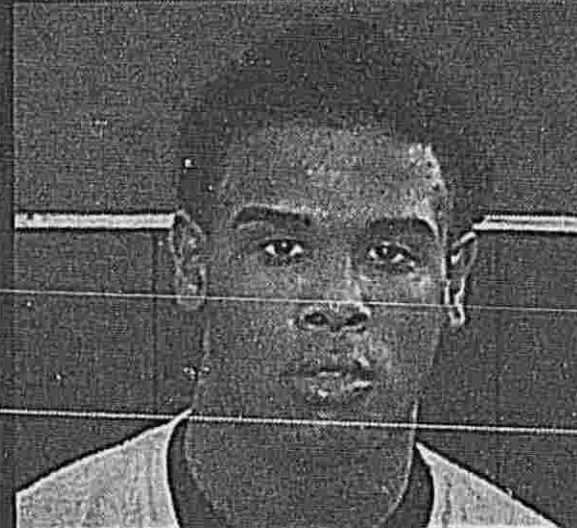

"I have no doubt in my mind that we're about a year from really turning it on."

PREPFILES

DENNIS WALSH

Waukegan Bulldogs

Dennis Walsh is a wrestler on top of the world right now. Not only did the 215-pounder defend his school's home turf with a big regional championship win, he also did it in one of the best matches of the day.

"I'm feeling pretty psyched about (winning the 215-pound championship match)," Walsh said. "When it started out, I was down 4-1 and I was wondering if I could come back from that. But I just focused and tried to attack and keep my head in it."

Waukegan coach Steve Welter said his improvement over the past two seasons has been phenomenal. If there's any question of Welter's assessment, the old adage that numbers never lie comes into play as Walsh finished last year with a 14-6 record and currently stands at 35-4.

Even before the regional title had time sink in, Walsh was already thinking about the next level. However, he wasn't just thinking about the upcoming Lake Zurich sectional, he was thinking about one opponent in particular: Wheeling's Joe Stumpfoll.

Stumpfoll, a 36-3 senior wrestler, won the Prospect regional last week, has a bit of a history with Walsh as the Wildcat ended his 2005 season.

"I haven't been to state yet and I know it's not sectionals yet, but I'm really looking to win it down there," Walsh said. "Last year, I was knocked out at Barrington (sectional) after Stumpfoll beat me. We were 1-1 with 12 seconds left, I get beaten 2-1 and then he goes to state, so I want to go up against him again."

If there's any doubt of Walsh's resolve in the squared circle, just ask one of his opponents, Sid Estrada. Estrada, a 30-11 Warren wrestler who finished as the Waukegan regional runner-up was impressed with his opponent's skill.

"I'm glad I wrestled against him as good as I did," Estrada said. "I went through the whole regional scared of him. He was just coming after me and he picked me apart. That was probably the best match I've ever had."

SHERIFF'S RACE

State's Attorneys Office, and currently a criminal defense attorney, Mark Curran of Waukegan bristles at the charge that he has no law enforcement experience.

"It is an insult to anyone who knows how the justice system works and an insult to my profession," he said. "I am an expert in criminal justice and a teacher who has given countless in-services to police officers to help them understand their rights and responsibilities under the law."

Both candidates feel they are in the unique position to bring fresh perspectives to the sheriff's office while providing employees a safe environment in which to bring to light practices now tolerated under Del Re's lead.

"There is a 'thin blue line' right now," said Curran. "There are those who see wrongdoing but don't feel they can come forward to say anything about it. I am beholden to no one and will create a climate where people can come forward."

Oliver makes sure to not cast himself as the bitter employee with an ax to grind but feels he can change what he perceives as "a workplace environment where if you disagree with the sheriff or challenge his authority you are considered disloyal."

Oliver points to his being removed from the position of field commander when he cited deficiencies in the Tactical Response Team program. Oliver says such program shortcomings are par for the course.

"Gary Del Re is a sound byte sheriff, he has instituted lots of paper programs but there's no substance. For instance he started the Bicycle Patrol Unit but it's not utilized the way it was presented to the people of Lake County," said Oliver. "Also the Warrants Division—There are tens of thousands of arrest warrants but only two deputies and one commanding officer to process them all. They do the best they can but the office is ineffective. I will restructure employment procedures and policies."

Curran has his doubts about Oliver's ability to accomplish those goals while pointing to Oliver's lack of endorsement from the Lake County Democratic Organization.

"He is just using the democratic primary to settle the score with his boss," he said. "The Democratic Party in Lake County feels I have the credentials to beat Del Re. Oliver has never been a Sergeant, Lieutenant or Commander and now he wants to be the Sheriff? A $50 million budget is at stake and he doesn't even have an undergraduate degree."

Both candidates are committed to reform and Oliver has taken an oath to not take contributions from businesses that contract with the Sheriff's department. He has asked Del Re and Curran to "stand with me to show the people of Lake County that the sheriff's office is not for sale."

Curran has retorted by pointing out that his own campaign contributions, currently estimated at approximately $20,000 after a recent fundraiser, were made by hundreds of people. Oliver's estimated $60,000 has come from two contributors, one of which is Paul Bilisko, the son of a former sheriff's office partner.

"What I want to know is what are these people getting for their money? I believe Rich Bilisko has been promised the under-sheriff's job," said Curran.

Oliver reiterated, "I have financed this campaign through family and friends. I've promised no one anything in return."

As for Sheriff Del Re, he is happy to let his opponents duke it out until the primary.

"Because I am unopposed in the primary, I am focused on fall when I'll get my message of accomplishment and achievement out to voters," he said.

He shook off implications that he minds one of his employees pursuing his job: "Larry is certainly entitled to run for political office. As for Mark Curran, while I put away criminals, he is committed to defending them."

Del Re confirmed he will not be attending the Lake County Sheriff Candidate forum at the University of Illinois Extension campus on Feb. 16 because he previously committed to another engagement.

est fish in 10 categories, including walleye, bass, northern pike, muskie, crappie, catfish and perch.

Golonka said the event had grown from one location to four in the past 46 years and now offered a carnival, children's games, a magic show, raffles, and an auction at the event headquarters.

Some of the raffle items include $1,000 in cash, a Minn Kota bow mount electric drive trolling motor, and $250 shopping sprees at Best Buy, Jewel-Osco and The Home Depot.

"It is a wonderful family event," Golonka said.

"We have three generations of ice fishermen out there right now. It is a great way for families to have fun in the winter, to get out and enjoy the fresh air."

For information about the fishing derby, call the Northern Illinois Conservation Club at (847) 395-6422 or visit their Web site, www.lake-online.com/nicc.

Animals

If you must give up your beloved pet, please consider these suggestions.
*Free animal ads suggest that there is something wrong with the animal, or that it has no value.
*Some people who respond to these free animal ads are imposters and are only concerned about making a profit and not the animal's welfare.
*Charging a fee to a potential pet owner confirms the responsibility of pet ownership for an entire lifetime of that pet. For more information, please contact the Humane Society.

Originally given up because of allergies, she quickly found a home where her new family strongly believed that she had been badly abused. They thought she had the potential of becoming a great dog with some love, patience, and work but decided that a home with kids had too much traffic, which made Lil Kelly nervous. She is sadly still waiting for that compassionate and dog-savvy home. This, at times sassy and independent girl loves her walks, treats, and when the weather permits, little beauty mud baths. Her dog walkers are touched by her devotion and resilience.

Separating the men from the boys

By Dan Patrick

dpatrick@nwnewsgroup.com

The first step is always the most difficult, yet in the first round of the IHSA Class AA wrestling state tournament, so many teams made it look so easy last Saturday.

Lakeland area teams were stellar in both the Mundelein and Waukegan regionals as Grant, Warren and Waukegan took the top three spots in Waukegan while Libertyville, Round Lake and Carmel finished first, second and fourth in Mundelein.

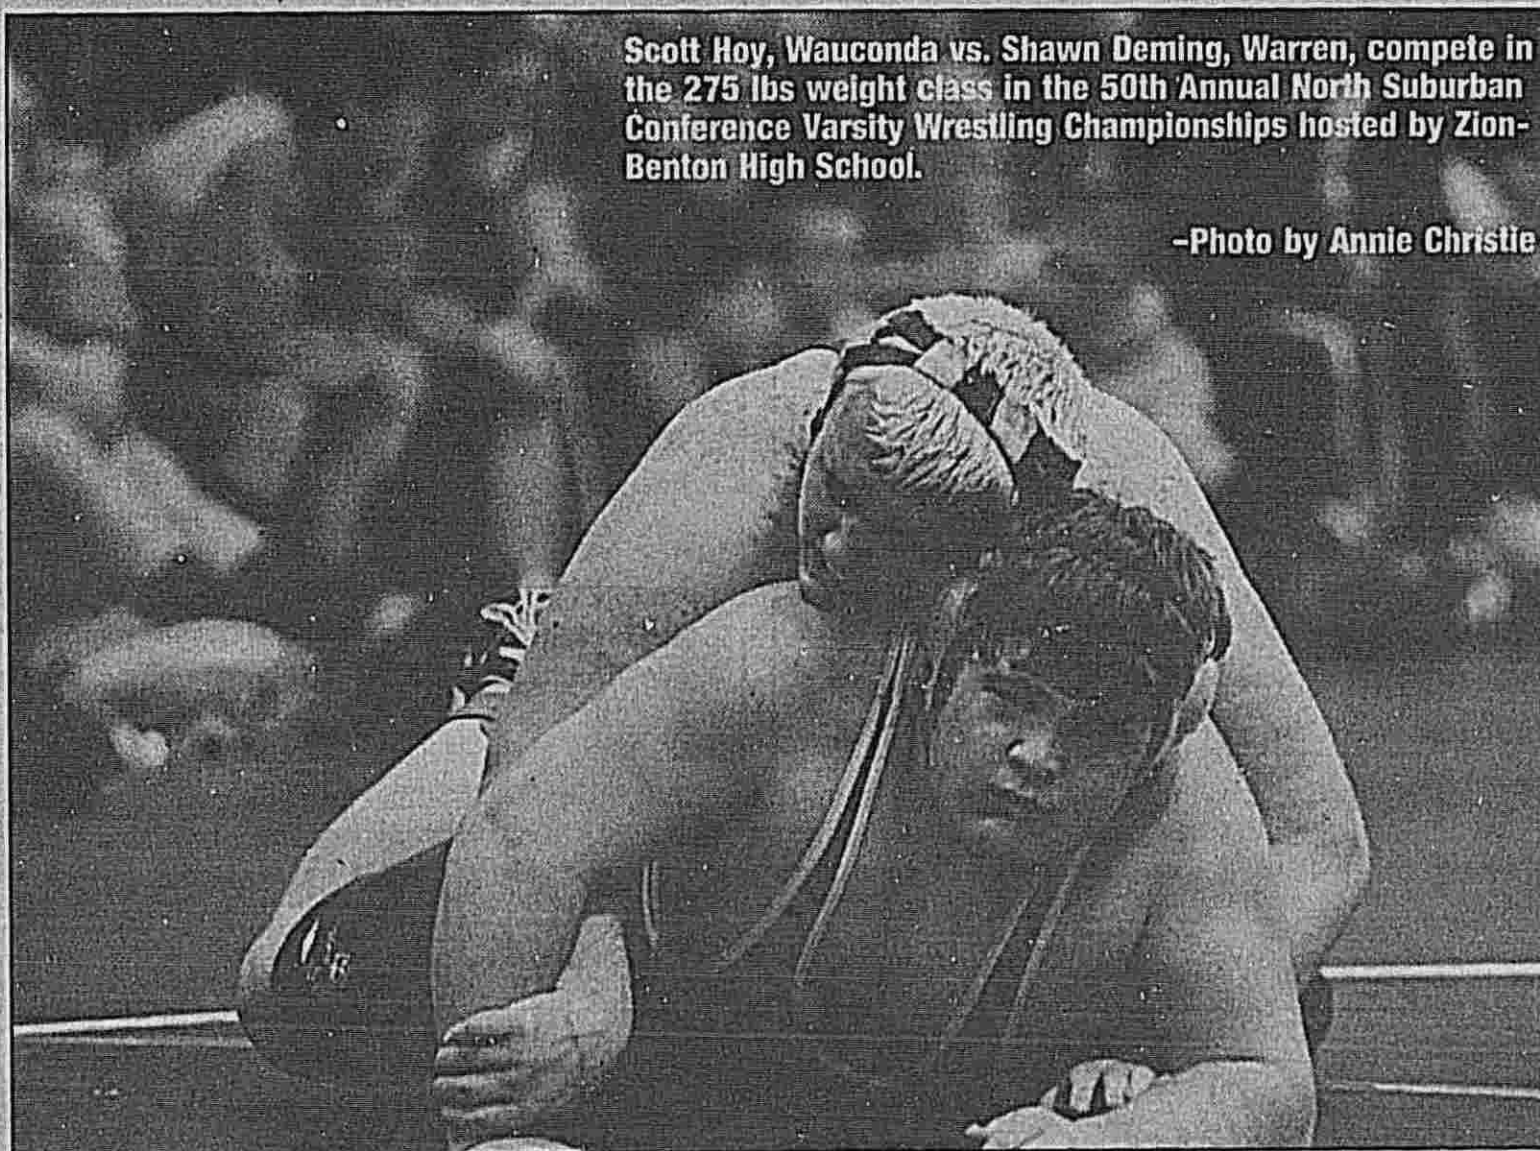

With the wins, perennial state contenders Libertyville and Grant will get the chance to advance to the team sectionals while sending a combined 24 individual wrestlers to the next level.

If there was any question of Grant's dominance in the area wrestling scene, it was erased during the Waukegan regional. The Bulldogs controlled the tournament up and down the weight classes, placing wrestlers in the position to advance in every weight class, besting Warren by 87.5 points.

Of the 14 Grant wrestlers, only one did not secure a sectional position and 10 won championships. Bulldog stars Danny Deligio (31-3), John Deneen (35-2) and Jimmy Kennedy (37-0) led the way for the team.

"We figured it was going to be a barnburner between us and Warren, but it didn't end up as close as I thought," Grant coach Ryan Geist said. "I was so happy with their performance, our kids wrestled their hearts out."

Libertyville was equally impressive as the team outscored the runner-up Panthers 218-147, advancing 11 wrestlers to the sectionals. Wildcat mainstays Ted Strychalski (37-3), Jon Henslee (37-2) and Jack Danilkowicz (35-1) didn't fail expectations as all three secured championships. It was all in a day's work for coach Dale Eggert and his squad.

"I thought that our performance was great; we had a number of guys win on revenge matches and we wrestled well overall," Eggert said. "Our six champions (Strychalski, Henslee, Danilkowicz, Vinnie Sapienza, Ryan Manning and Peter Mazzetta) I pretty much expected them to get their wins, so it was a good day overall."

With both regionals, the true race was for the second spot with Warren and Waukegan battling it out with only nine points separating the second place Blue Devils from the third place Bulldogs.

"To even finish third against so many tough teams is something I'm really proud of," Waukegan coach Steve Welter said. "I thought it was just going to be a race between Warren and Grant, but for us to get in there the way we did was great."

Waukegan was able to make its presence felt thanks to impressive performances from the Bulldog big men, taking championships in the top three weight classes. While Grant ruled the featherweights and Waukegan controlled the heavyweights, Warren was right there in the middle with Brennan Drew (145), Justin Carlson (160) and Willie Brooks (171) taking home championships.

Once again, consistency ruled in Waukegan as typical Blue Devil all-stars took home the hardware for Warren. Overall, coach Mark Tiffany thought his team could have put together a better performance, but was proud of his individual champions.

"The kids who wrestle well did well for us today," Tiffany said. "This is the time where it separates the men from the boys and I think a lot of our wrestlers wrestled at their potential. I just hope they can carry it on into the sectional."

While the Mundelein regional wasn't quite the same sort of barnburner atmosphere as the Waukegan regional, runner-up Round Lake was

Scoring records and leveling the playing field

If you're a regular viewer of ESPN, by now, you've probably heard the name Epiphanny Prince. Prince, a high school girls basketball star for Murry Bergtraum High School in New York, recently set a new prep scoring record with 113 points, breaking Hall of Famer Cheryl Miller's 1982 mark of 105 points in one game.

Prince accomplished the feat in a 137-32 rout of Brandeis High School. To place the disparity of the teams in perspective, Murry Bergtraum High is ranked at No. 2 in the nation while Brandeis has struggled to only four league wins all season long.

I've always been a big proponent for "leveling the playing field," especially when there's an actual playing field involved. From expanding class systems to trying to bring in more fans for girls sports and I, like so many others, would rather see the Davids win over the Goliaths.

Yet I'm somewhat torn on Prince's accomplishment. Running up the score in high school sports has always been frowned upon, but it's a fact of life. Prince's 113 points came on the back of an 105-point dismantlement of her opponents.

Just looking at the 137-32 box score alone is enough to make many fans' shake their heads in disdain, yet when Prince's 54-of-60 shooting (90-percent!) is taken into consideration, it almost seems to justify the ridiculous end result.

Obviously, losing by triple-digits is nothing any prep player should go through, yet would it also have been right to truncate such a stellar performance? Prince was on fire throughout the night, scoring 58 points in the first half alone while her team was up 74-11 at the break. Despite the historic night, I do think there was some wrongdoing in the game.

Typically, 30-point margins of victory is where most varsity coaches draw the line, pull the starters and give the younger players a chance to hone their skills, but obviously, Prince was in the entire time.

I don't think the blame her lies with Prince. I don't think coaches

Wauconda continues impressive hardwood season

By Dan Patrick

dpatrick@nwnewsgroup.com

The Wauconda boys basketball team has been on a roller coaster this season, that is, a roller coaster that has yet to plunge from atop its initial peak. The Bulldogs currently sit at 15-6 on the season and 7-2 in the North Suburban Conference Prairie Division. Wauconda has been battling North Chicago for the NSC-Prairie crown throughout the year and the Bulldogs still have the trophy within reach.

The Bulldogs' newfound success can be attributed to a strong stable of steady players. However, one attribute cannot be measured by mere numbers: heart. Early on in the season, Wauconda was able to rack up victories, but had trouble with burying teams.

"It's been a pattern for us allowing teams to get back into the game," Wauconda coach Rich Wolf said early in the season. "It's one of the things we've got to get better at."

The Bulldogs have certainly improved in that aspect notching multiple double-digit victories in the last month of competition and show few signs of slowing down their impressive start.

During Wauconda's game against Round Lake last Friday, the Bulldogs controlled after a strong second quarter, outscoring the hosting Panthers 18-10 in the stanza. Wauconda never looked back from their halftime lead to take the eventual 60-50 victory.

While the Bulldog headlines have been ruled by Tim Schwarz, Steve Bilisko stepped up in the recent game, netting a career-high 24 points in the Round Lake win. Not to be outdone, Schwarz notched 14 in the game and senior Kris Gehrke finished with 9.

While the Bulldogs have traditionally been languishing in the .500 range, Wauconda's become a force to be reckoned with on the basketball court.

"I think we've done a great job this season, but we need to keep our heads on our shoulders," Wolf said. "We can't just sit back and relax when we're having a year like this. We need to cut down on the little errors that can cost us the game and we should be able to do some things in the tournament."

While the IHSA tournament stands at about a month away, teams have already begun positioning themselves for good seeding. With the 71-percent winning rate, Wauconda is on the short list of area leaders.

"Every team is fighting for a good seed these days and every game counts, now more than ever," Wolf said. "We've still got some important games left on our schedule and we need to be ready for every one."

The importance of Wauconda's games in the coming weeks is evident as the Bulldogs have to lock horns with NSC-Prairie foes Vernon Hills, North Chicago and Antioch. The Warhawks should provide the biggest test for the hard-charging Bulldogs as the two teams have been competing for the division title all season long.

With one of the best starts in recent memory, Wauconda has a real chance to erase any doubts of whether or not the Bulldogs are a legitimate contender in the NSC-Prairie. As Wauconda works to cement a good spot in the IHSA tournament, there is still work to be done for the Bulldogs.

WRESTLING

able to continue to make its case as one of the better wrestling programs in the area. Ryan Barnard (145), Josh Terrell (160) and Chris Larsen (215) were the only champions, but the Panthers will be sending six wrestlers to Barrington this weekend.

"Everybody we had wrestled really well, but we just don't have the horses that Libertyville does," Round Lake coach John Jobst said. "We were actually winning for a short time and I think the kids are really peaking at the right time for us."

While Carmel failed to make the podium in the team standings, Corsair coach Joe Scordino was pleased with his team's effort. Despite a relatively young roster, Carmel is sending six wrestlers to Barrington including lone Corsair champion Ryan Unrein (140).

"I thought that the six individuals that did make it did a good job," Scordino said. "I had a couple of wrestlers that were sick and you always want to have every guy there, but any time you've got six wrestlers advance in such a tough tournament, it's a good thing."

Looking ahead at Barrington, perhaps the biggest story will come with the biggest competitors. The top two heavyweight finishers in Mundelein were Libertyville's Danilkowicz and Carmel's Dan Clinton, who boast 35-1 and 32-2 records, respectively.

"Our heavyweight guy (Clinton) went up against one of the best in the state and he wrestled right there with him," Scordino said. "You've got two dynamite kids going against each other in the next round and it's going to be good."

should tell their stars to play at half speed out of sheer pity. It's an insult for the star and the receiving team, but I think Prince should have been pulled.

Beyond a coach's decision, perhaps the culprit is New York's use of a 35-second shot clock. I hope I never see such a contraption amongst the high school ranks here in Illinois. High-powered girls basketball teams such as Grant or Warren have no troubles putting up the points and a shot clock at the high school level is simply unneeded.

Without the clock, Brandeis could have slowed down the game, done the usual five-passes-before-a-shot drill and maybe could have kept the winning margin underneath triple digits.

There is a lot to be said about dropping 100-plus points in a varsity game. As any person will tell you, it's hard enough getting to 20 or 30, let alone putting up multiples of that. But unfortunately, Prince's record may be tarnished with poor circumstances.

Anyone enjoy the Super Bowl last weekend? Yeah, me neither. With the conspicuous lack of the Bears, barnburner-type game and hilarious commercials, I wasn't too entertained. Oh well, there's always next year.

Congratulations to Warren girls soccer midfielder Giuliana Lopez as she will get the chance to extend her career with the University of Kentucky Wildcats. Lopez will have a lot to look forward to as the Wildcats capped off a winning season in 2005, finishing 8-6-7 on the season. Good luck to her on the NCAA playing field.

Until recently, no one gave much thought to the topic of bone health. Occasionally you would hear of someone who broke a hip and was never the same again. As more and more research is being conducted, doctors are passing on the word to patients that it is vital to take preventative measures to ensure bone health, to preserve quality of life and increase life expectancy.

Recognizing the disease

Osteoporosis affects both men and women and is not just a "grandmother's disease." It is a condition characterized by a decrease in bone mass and density, causing bones to become fragile. Those suffering from osteoporosis are much more likely than others to break bones following even minor bumps and falls. The disease can limit mobility and lead to a downward spiral in physical health and the quality of life. The ability to walk, stand up or take care of oneself may be lost following an osteoporotic fracture. According to a National Institute of Health report, one in five patients dies within a year after sustaining an osteoporotic hip fracture. Therefore, detecting osteoporosis and charting a course of treatment is crucial.

Preventative measures

There are many steps you can take to ensure bone health. Here are a few recommendations from the Surgeon General and Wallach Surgical, the distributors of Sunlight Omnisense, an ultrasound-based osteoporosis testing device:

- Eat a diet high in calcium and Vitamin D. Calcium can be found in dairy products like milk, cheeses and yogurt, and in green leafy vegetables and soybeans. Vitamin D is produced in the skin by exposure to the sun, but can also be found in fortified milk and other foods. Supplements may also be beneficial to boost calcium and Vitamin D intake.

- Inactive individuals are at risk for osteoporosis because exercise is important

Baby Boomers: Learn about osteoporosis

Exercise and healthy eating are preventative measures you can take to ensure bone health to maintain healthy bones. Exercise regularly - about 30 minutes per day - and include weight-bearing exercises in your fitness routine to improve strength and balance.

Osteoporosis screenings

Your physician should regularly look for the warning signs of osteoporosis, including low-trauma bone fractures and back pain from undetected vertebral fractures. A bone-density test with a device approved for bone monitoring should be performed regularly. It is not advisable to wait until age 65 for such testing since every year left untreated increases the risk.

Screenings can typically be done in the privacy of your doctor's office. Diagnostic instruments such as the Omnisense bone sonometer are non-invasive, involving only a small ultrasound device that sends a soundwave across the bones in your wrist or finger. The speed of the ultrasound wave indicates bone strength and your osteoporosis status. No radiation is present, and the procedure is painless. Your doctor will be able to view a full-color report and share the results with you within 10 minutes at a cost of $40 to $50 for those under 65. If you are over 65, the procedure is covered by Medicare in most cases. With the treatment options available today, your doctor can set you on a path to improve your bone strength. It's a small price to pay for adding years of healthy bones to your life.

The week after Sarah was diagnosed, she finished a marathon. Then the real race began.

Sarah Cooper, breast cancer survivor

Even after she was diagnosed, Sarah continued, finishing a marathon the very next week. So when her hometown doctor told her she would have to wait three weeks to begin treatment, she wasn't content to lose precious time.

"I came to CTCA for a second opinion, and I got right in," she said. "When I arrived I was lost, bewildered. But the staff and the other patients helped me find my way. I left with an overwhelming feeling of, 'okay, we can take care of this.'"

She did take care of it, crossing the finish line with a victory over breast cancer.

Charity holds 20th annual fund-raising ball

The Assistance in Healthcare Foundation will be holding its 20th annual charity ball in February. The not-for-profit 501C foundation provides financial grants to assist cancer patients who have become financially distressed as a result of their noble fight against cancer.

The Sweetheart Ball is the major fundraiser of the year for the charitable foundation and is scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 25th at the Concorde Banquets in Kildeer, IL. The event features a dinner/dance, silent auction, a 50/50 raffle, and a special "capsule table" of smaller items. Cocktails and the auctions begin at 6:00 p.m. followed by dinner and dancing at 7:00 p.m. Each year, the event receives community and business support in the form of donations of items for a silent auction, sponsorships for the event, and/or cash donations.

As in the past, jewelry, cases of wine, autographed memorabilia, vacation time in a donated condo or vacation home, theater/dinner passes, and paintings are just some of the special items donated for the Silent Auction table.

The main sponsor for the event is Cancer Treatment Centers of America at Midwestern Regional Medical Center. Businesses and organizations wishing to help by sponsoring the charity event are being accepted.

Last year's Sweetheart Ball raised in excess of $85,000 with more than 300 attendees. Throughout the year, an average of 80-plus patients or patient's families per month were helped by the funds raised. Other than the costs associated with the ball itself, all funds raised by the volunteer foundation go to patients or their families who have demonstrated need.

Any party wishing to donate to the foundation or wanting reservations for the Sweetheart Ball can call Carol Lulinski at 847-872-6302, Barb Albert at 847-872-6462 or Marlene Bloxson at 847-872-6311.

PETA petitions fail to deter donkey-basketball fans

By Jillian Compton

jcompton@nwnewsgroup.com

Johnsburg High School senior Chris DeMarchi sprang up from the floor, slid on the donkey's back, shot, and fell off before the basketball swished through the hoop.

Meanwhile, a donkey bucked junior A.J. Huemann off repeatedly while he talked soothingly, trying to coax it into accepting his medium frame on its back.

The crowd of about 500 cheered as he raised his fist in the air when he finally accomplished the feat. Still, Huemann was too far from the action to get involved in the game.

"I was determined to get on," Huemann said later. "There was no way I was going to give up."

The second annual donkey-basketball event, which raised $3,709 for the Athletic Booster Club, evoked laughter, cheers and gasps, not unlike games that only involve two-legged athletes.

One participant fell hard enough that he decided to sit out the rest of the 16-minute game. Sophomore John Scully fell while trying to mount a donkey to pass the ball.

He left the game to ice his left hip, although he returned to watch the rest of the game.

"I tried to get on; it didn't work too well," he said. "It was fun, though."

About 24 students and eight teachers played despite petitions that circulated at the junior high and high schools with concerns that the games might be cruel to donkeys.

Two junior high students attended a pre-game meeting with organizers and participants but did not pass out leaflets from People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals as they originally had planned.

"By the time the meeting was over, everyone was already in the gym," said seventh-grader Kaylah Domanico, who gathered about 50 signatures on a petition she never submitted to organizers. "There was really no one else to give fliers to."

PETA alleges food and water are withheld from animals to prevent accidents, the rubber shoes do not prevent the donkeys from slipping, and players can hit or kick the donkeys, according to the leaflets.

Domanico thought the donkeys' behavior showed they were uncomfortable.

"I don't think donkeys would be bucking people off like that if they were happy with what was going on," she said.

Dairyland Donkey Basketball owner C.J. Cordell, who advertises his event as the "craziest show on Earth," laced his rules with humor but told participants they were not allowed to hit, bite or spit on the donkeys. Donkeys have access to hay throughout the day and are given grain and water after the events. Players must dismount immediately if someone is injured or a donkey has an accident.

Booster President Kathy Ignoffo said she would like to arrange a donkey baseball program this spring. Cordell, of Wisconsin, offers about 90 basketball games and a few dozen baseball games each year, splitting the gate money with host organizations.

Give high fuel costs the cold shoulder

The rising cost of fuel can send chills through everyone's wallet. According to Smart Money magazine, fuel prices are anticipated to rise by 35 percent this year so Americans are looking for ways to save money and reduce their energy consumption. If you can't live without driving your car, and heading to a warmer climate for the cold months isn't an option, try cutting back your energy costs with these suggestions from Brian Earley, a fuel and automotive operations expert.

For the home during the cold months

Utilize ceiling fans. Remember learning that heat rises? Well, running the fans slowly and in reverse will keep that warm air circulating and keep you more comfortable. This will reduce your furnace's running time, and most importantly, your heating bill.

Avoid the draft. Insulate all entryways in the house with a rolled-up throw rug or specially made draft catcher tucked under the doorway. Spreading some new caulking over leaks in window frames will usually do the trick for a few dollars. If you have storm windows, make sure that they are securely closed. For those without storm windows, purchasing temporary ones (a plastic film that you place over your window and secure with heat from a blow dryer; available at most hardware stores) will also help.

Automatic rewards. Install a programmable thermostat and set it to your schedule; have it lower the temperature when you're not at home. These cost anywhere from $20 on up depending on all the features you would like, but even a basic model will be well worth the investment.

Shop around. Look for discount programs and offers. BJ's Wholesale Club is the only retailer that offers a home heating oil program, in which you can save hundreds on your home heating bill (up to 10 percent or more). Thaw out your wallet this year with this cost-effective oil service offered at many BJ's Wholesale Clubs. Go to www.bjs.com to find out more information.

Ex-custodian pleads not guilty to planting spy camera

By Rob Phillips

rphillips@nwnewsgroup.com

A fired Richmond Grade School custodian accused of putting a spy camera in a school bathroom pleaded not guilty to misdemeanor charges Monday, while prosecutors began to examine new evidence that Richmond police say led to the arrest.

Nichole Owens, criminal division chief for the McHenry County State's Attorney's office, said Monday she could not comment on the new evidence because prosecutors just received it Friday. Richmond police have said they recently learned that school employees were videotaped with the camera.

Dennis M. Okayama, 54, of 9118 Alamonte Drive, Spring Grove, was charged with three counts of unauthorized videotaping in connection with the Dec. 13 discovery of a hidden spy camera in the Richmond Grade School staff bathroom.

The camera disappeared shortly after it was reported to the police department Dec. 14. Meanwhile, Okayama's attorney Daniel Hofmann said that he received an anonymous letter, two spy cams and a recording device at his office Saturday that called the charges against Okayama a "setup."

The letter that Hofmann received indicates that the spy cams were taken from a storage area in an area school, Hofmann said.

Hofmann wants whoever sent the package to identify themselves to help the investigation.

"I need this person to contact me so I can list them as a potential witness and we can actually talk about these things," Hofmann said. "An anonymous letter does me no good."

A similar package was mailed to the Northwest Herald in January. The letter said the spy cams were found in a third school.

All the items were turned over to Spring Grove police for investigation.

Hofmann said he will make the items dropped off at his office available to the McHenry County State's Attorney's office and police.

Okayama, who faces up to a year in jail and a $2,500 fine, is next expected in court March 8.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES - March 21/April 20
You run into an old friend early in the week, Aries. Spend time catching up with him or her. However, don't say too much, because he or she won't keep what you say private. A loved one needs a shoulder to cry on during the middle of the week. Be there for him or her.

TAURUS-April 21/May 21
Don't be stubborn when it comes to a disagreement at work. Your way isn't the only way to get something accomplished. Listen to what others have to say, and try to reach a compromise. The higher-ups are watching how you react to this situation. Libra plays an important role late in the week.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21
You have a lot going on this week, Gemini. So, try to stay calm and in control. That's the only way to get things done. Turn to a loved one if you need some advice on handling everything. He or she is sure to build up your confidence. The person whom you've been seeing has a surprise for you. Enjoy!

CANCER - June 22/July 22
Keep your sense of humor about you this week, Cancer, because things are going to get hectic. If you take everything seriously, you'll upset yourself. Just try to laugh at things, and stay calm. The person whom you've been seeing has a question to ask you. Be honest with him or her.

LEO - July 23/August 23
Don't hold a grudge against a co-worker who makes an honest mistake. This person doesn't mean to cause you any trouble. So, don't take it personally. Make an effort to talk with a friend whom you haven't talked in quite a long time. This person will be glad to hear from you.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
Don't worry about a minor problem at work. You're not involved in the situation, and those who are certainly can handle it. There's no reason for you to get upset. The person whom you've been seeing wants to call it quits. Don't be sad, because you know that he or she isn't the one for you.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23
Even though you don't really want to, you have to make an important decision early in the week, Libra. You can't put it off any longer. Just look at the pros and cons, and do what you think is best. Everything will work out in the end.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22
Don't get mad when a close friend insults you early in the week, Scorpio. This person is upset and is lashing out at the first person whom he or she sees. That just happens to be you. Instead of getting angry, try to find out what is upsetting this person. He or she really needs someone to talk to. Be there for him or her.

SAGITTARIUS-Nov 23/Dec 21
You run into an old flame this week. While romantic feelings start to flare up again, don't try to rekindle your relationship. Deep down inside, you know that this person isn't the one for you. A loved one needs your help with a personal matter. Do what you can for him or her.

CAPRICORN-Dec 22/Jan 20
Don't be shy when you meet an interesting person early in the week. He or she really can help your career. So, get to know him or her better. Just be yourself, and you're sure to make a good impression. An acquaintance needs some financial assistance. Do what you can for him or her.

AQUARIUS-Jan 21/Feb 18
Don't get suspicious when a co-worker offers to help you with a problem. This person doesn't have any ulterior motives; he or she just wants to be there for you. This could be the beginning of a close friendship. Pisces plays an important role in your love life late in the week.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20
Even though you want to help a loved one in need this week, don't. He or she is in a difficult situation, and your involvement only will make matters worse. So, stay out of it. That special someone wants to take you out for a night on the town. Say yes.
